REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Adopted at Concord, April 21, 1908.

For more than half a century, the record of the Republican party is the history of the progress of the United States. The wisdom of its legislation is shown in the unrivaled growth and prosperity of the nation. The cardinal principles of the Republican party,—equal opportunity for all, protection to American industry, sound money, the maintenance of law and order at home, and the promotion of peace abroad,—have become the accepted policies of the country. We renew our allegiance to these principles.

After four years' experience with a Democratic president and congress, the Republican party returned to power in our nation in 1897. The undertakings of the three Republican administrations since that time, many of which are now accomplished facts, are the account the Republican party gives of its stewardship. The enactments of this period mark the continued advance of the country in material and moral growth. Upon its entire record in national affairs and its readiness to deal with new problems as they arise, the Republican party confidently goes to the country asking a renewed expression of the faith of the people in the integrity of its pledges.

We recognize the approaching day when the existing tariff schedules should be carefully examined with a view to making such changes as may be necessary to adjust them to current conditions, having always in mind the fundamental Republican principle of ample protection to American industry and labor. In the meantime, we record our emphatic opposition to tariff-tinkering by piecemeal.

The restoration of the American flag to the ocean carrying trade is one of the policies to which the Republican party stands committed by repeated declarations. We appreciate the good work done by our congressional delegation to this end, and we congratulate the senior senator from New Hampshire on the prospect that his untiring efforts in behalf of the American merchant marine are likely to be crowned with success.

We approve wise and generous pension legislation for our veterans of land and sea, and shall ever hold in grateful remembrance their sacrifices that our Union might live.

We commend the work of our delegation in Congress to secure national aid for the preservation of the White Mountain forests, and we request them to use all honorable means to secure action at this session of Congress.

We renew the pledges made by the Republican party of New Hampshire in 1906 relative to state affairs. The platform then adopted must be fulfilled in both letter and spirit. To this end we invoke the hearty co-operation of every Republican in the state.

It is the judgment of your committee that the real interests of the Republican party of New Hampshire as well as the real interests of the presidential candidate to be nominated at Chicago in June and elected at the polls in November will be best served without the presentation either of specific instructions or of implied instructions in the form of resolutions of preference in this convention.

We recognize the untiring energy, exalted purpose and ardent patriotism of Theodore Roosevelt. To his abiding faith in the people and their continued confidence in him is due the great success of his leadership. We hereby express our cordial approval of his administration.

Our party was never richer in the number of its leaders, not only in point of patriotism and unselfish devotion to our country, but as regards their ability and statesmanlike qualities. Whoever shall be the selection of the convention at Chicago, as its candidates for president and vice-president of the United States, in the full confidence that these candidates will be such men as will assure a continuance of the policy of economic and moral advance of the past few years, we hereby pledge them the support of a united and enthusiastic party in New Hampshire and an old-time majority of votes at the election next November.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Adopted at Concord, September 17, 1903.

I.

Rejoicing in half a century of glorious history, meeting with resolution, determination, and patriotism the issues of the present, confident and clear-eyed as to the problems of the future, the Republican party of this country points to a nation saved, purified, restored and expanded; to slavery abolished, to public credit preserved, to prosperity promoted, to national honor protected, to a nation in peace and tranquillity at home, honored and respected abroad; and upon its record in war and in peace confidently demands the approval and endorsement of the American people. It has given to this nation Lincoln and Grant, McKinley and Roosevelt. It has saved it from secession, repudiation, fiatism, and Bryanism. Fearing not the exactions of predatory wealth on the one hand, nor the demands of anarchy and demagoguery on the other, it will pursue the path of patriotism, progress, and Rooseveltism.

The Republicans of New Hampshire are proud of their history of more than fifty years. They challenge just criticism of their almost continuous administration of state affairs. No scandal besmirches their long record. They have met in the past, they will meet in the future, the issues as they arise, and they will solve them in a spirit of fairness, of progressiveness and of justice to all. To the principles of the party in the nation they declare their adhesion and support; to its candidates they are steadfast and true, and to Taft and Sherman they pledge the electoral vote of New Hampshire.

II.

The rate of taxation levied on public service corporations should be the average rate of taxation upon the property of individuals throughout the state, and should not be reduced by taking into consideration the capital of insurance companies and the deposits in savings banks upon which the rate has been reduced for particular and beneficent reasons.

Upon the report of the existing tax commission to review the tax laws of the state we pledge our best efforts to procure legislation that will insure a full and equitable valuation of the property within the state, and its proportionate taxation in accordance with the principles here declared.

III.

We demand that the issuing of free passes by railroads be limited by penal statute to those actually and permanently engaged in the ordinary daily business of those corporations, and those employed in handling the mail and express business upon the trains, or accompanying and caring for freight, and persons in misfortune who are unable to pay their fares.

IV.

We are in favor of the passage of a law requiring attorneys and all other persons appearing before a legislative committee in a representative capacity to enter their appearance with the secretary of state in a book kept for that purpose, which shall be open to the inspection of the public, stating in whose interests they appear, and such law should also require returns of their fees and expenses.

V.

We demand the passage of a direct primary law which shall confine party nominations to party adherents, and which shall place the nomination of all elective state officers in the hands of the people.

VI.

We favor the enactment of legislation tending to restrict to its minimum the use of intoxicants. Upon the legislature devolves the duty of drafting such laws; and if that body shall decide to retain the general form of regulation now governing the liquor traffic, we urge that every possible legal safeguard be provided to protect the expressed wish of those communities which vote for no license, and that an assistant attorney-general be provided whose special duty it should be to act under the direction of the attorney-general in the strict enforcement of the liquor laws.

VII.

As education is the foundation of good citizenship, we are in favor of the enactment of wise and deliberate legislation to improve our public schools, and to provide all the children within the state as far as possible equal opportunities to secure the elements of a sound education. To this end the appropriation for aid under the equalization law should be increased, thereby enabling the country districts to lengthen the school year, and the state should provide increased facilities for the training of teachers, so that a better equipped force of instructors in the elementary branches may be secured.

VIII.

The laws in the interests of labor which have been enacted in state and nation have been for the most part placed upon the statute books by the Republican party. In no state of the Union have there been fewer strikes, lockouts, and labor troubles than in the manufacturing cities and towns of New Hampshire.

New Hampshire should be in the lead in promoting the welfare of those who sustain the industries of the state, and we favor the passage of laws which shall fully meet the just demands of labor.

IX.

We view with apprehension the continued absence from the carrying trade of the world of American built ships, and we urge upon Congress the passage of an effective measure for the revival of the United States mercantile marine, as specially urged by our senior United States senator.

X.

We reaffirm the platform adopted by the Republican state convention of September, 1906, and recommend to the Republicans of the various towns and cities that their candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives be required to pledge their best efforts to secure the fulfilment of the principles enunciated in this platform.

As Republicans of New Hampshire in convention assembled we pledge our unqualified support to the candidate who shall be chosen by this convention as our standard bearer.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION, 1908.

Delegates—Eugene E. Reed, Manchester; John B. Nash, Conway; John Sheridan, Berlin; James E. Shepard, New London; Timothy J. Labrecque, Manchester; Michael J. White, Dover; John C. Hutchins, Stratford; John J. Colony, Keene.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Adopted at Concord, May 27, 1908.

The Democratic party of New Hampshire, in convention assembled, declares its continued, unswerving adherence to those principles upon which the government was founded, and departure from which has always resulted in disaster.

The closing months of twelve consecutive years of absolute control of the government by the Republican party, finds the nation slowly recovering from the most disastrous financial panic, and the most destructive business collapse, that were ever witnessed in any country in a time of peace. The losses in the values of investment securities have reached billions of dollars; great railroad systems are unable to earn their fixed charges; world wide distrust of our great business and financial institutions has been created; the hard earned, honestly acquired competencies of thousands, and the scanty savings of other thousands, have been swept away. Wages have been sharply reduced, labor mercilessly placed on short time, and the greatest armies of unemployed that were ever mobilized by the stress of hunger, idleness, and want, are walking the streets of the cities, clamoring for food, shelter, and employment, exhausting public and private charities, and crowding to the limit soup kitchens and free lodging houses.

These things have occurred, notwithstanding the boasted principles and policies of the Republican party were in full force and effect, and its majorities in both branches of Congress so large that it has been absolutely free to enact whatever legislation it desired.

The sole, the almost adequate, compensatory result of all this enormous destruction of property and widespread distress is that the American people have at last discovered how desperately and wickedly the Republican party has played for years upon their fears, their credulity and their confidence. They have at last discovered that prosperity does not forever follow its ascendancy; that it is not the author, nor the providential agent, of good times; that the Dingley tariff is not the exhaustless source and spring of the common weal; and that the "full dinner pail" is not the legacy of William McKinley to the American workingman. They have witnessed the disclosure of the absolute fact, so long and so impudently denied, even by the president of the United States on the eve of the last presidential election, that the restoration to power of the Republican party, following the close of the administration of President Cleveland, was secured, and has been continued, by wholesale corruption at the polls, with money filched from the treasuries of great corporations, or eagerly contributed by the special beneficiaries of the existing tariff law.

The immediate and imperative need of the hour is the rehabilitation of the federal constitution, as the practicable and the only authorized plan of government for this nation.

We protest against government by executive proclamation, threat, or fiat, and especially at the attempts of Theodore Roosevelt to coerce the legislative and judicial departments of the government into a compliance with his autocratic demands, and obedience to his imperious will.

We protest against legislation by a "committee on rules" of the house of representatives, and the tyranny of the speaker, under which freedom of discussion has been suppressed, and the constitutional rights of the minority insolently and brutally ignored.

We protest against the extravagant and profligate system of national expenditures, for every imaginable object, and specially for an army and navy establishment that already calls for a burden of taxation as great as that of the greatest military empires of the Old World.

We protest against the policy by which this nation, whose government rests upon the maxims of the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence, undertakes to hold in submission millions of people who are, and forever will be, alien to the American people by the unalterable characteristics of race, habit and environment, and to whom the American flag has already come to be a symbol of tyranny. We deny that Providence has revealed to the Republican party, or to any of the professed custodians of His purposes and secrets, that it is the duty of the American people to undertake to civilize the tribes of the Philippine Islands, or fit them for self-government according to American ideals, and by the expenditure of endless millions of money, while the great philanthropic and charitable institutions of this country are appealing in vain for financial support, and hundreds of thousands of American children, white and black, insufficiently clothed, fed and sheltered, are unable to obtain the education and training that will fit them for the duties and opportunities of American citizenship. We demand that our purchased subjects in the Philippine Islands be given at the earliest possible moment the same rights and privileges of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" which the American people secured for themselves only at the enormous expense of two great wars, and the sacrifice of millions of lives.

We condemn the hypocritical palaver contained in the platform adopted at the last Republican convention in this state, in regard to tariff reform, in which it is said: "We recognize the approaching day when the existing tariff schedules should be carefully examined with a view to making such changes as may be necessary to adjust them to current conditions." We assert that the day has already come for tariff changes; that the existing schedules have been "carefully examined" by the American people and have been found to be the unconscionable consideration paid by the Republican party to the great trusts and combinations for the enormous contributions that were made to elect William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt; and we demand that the tariff laws be revised immediately in the interest alike of manufacturer, laborer and consumer. We call the especial attention of the country to the fact, that while one of the declared great purposes of our excessive tariff taxes is to protect American workingmen from competition with the "pauper labor" of the Old World, the great protected industries have opened wide their doors to the cheapest labor of Asia and Southern Europe, which is rapidly displacing the labor of native and naturalized American workingmen.

The remedy for the evils of trusts and combinations of any kind in restraint of trade or commerce, is not more executive sermons or more fines taken from the pockets of innocent stockholders, but the enforcement against the guilty of the criminal provisions of existing laws, and the repeal of duties upon articles, the production and distribution of which are controlled by monopolies that have taken root under the protection of exorbitant tariff rates, and overspread the entire land.

The tremendous and rapid growth of this country in population, manufacture, agriculture, transportation, foreign and domestic commerce, has required, and will long require, a large volume of circulating medium, and we demand that the currency laws be so amended that there shall be at all times enough money of undoubted security in circulation to meet all legitimate demands at reasonable rates, and make it impossible for any combination to corner the money market, force exorbitant rates of interest and precipitate a financial panic.

We believe that temporary injunctions should not be issued without reasonable previous notice and hearing, except in cases where immediate and irreparable injury is threatened, or is likely to be done, to the end that the rights of labor be amply protected.

We favor the election of United States senators by direct popular vote. We favor a reasonable, graduated income tax and an amendment to the federal constitution, if it be necessary, to accomplish this result.

We recognize the fact that great business and industrial enterprises cannot be successfully established and conducted except through the instrumentalities of corporate organizations, but we insist that all public corporations shall be subject to such governmental control as will secure to the people at all times reasonable service and accommodations at reasonable rates.

We condemn the unparalleled personal efforts of the president, aided by an enormously increased army of federal officials, to perpetuate the Roosevelt dynasty. There is no room in this country for even a slightly limited monarchy, whatever reforms are demanded, whatever policies are needed, or whatever public wrongs ought to be redressed.

We favor laws that will compel exact public report of, and accounting for, all money received for campaign purposes, the sources from which it is received and the manner in which it is used; and we venture to suggest to the president that a "decent" regard for the moral obligations of a "square deal" imperatively requires that the large amount of trust funds that were wrongfully taken out of the treasuries of great insurance companies for the purpose of securing his election as vice-president and president, be immediately restored.

The rapid exhaustion of the forests of the country is a matter of grave concern, and we urge concerted state and national legislation to prevent the further reckless and improvident cutting of trees, and to secure the reforestation of denuded timber lands.

We direct the attention of the people of this state to the confessions and disclosures made within recent years by those who have long been connected with the Republican party, of the deplorable conditions which exist in the conduct of public affairs, and to the necessity of radical reform.

We urge upon our delegates to the national Democratic convention to be holden at Denver, their best efforts to secure the nomination of such candidates for president and vice-president, and the adoption of such a platform of principles, as will ensure the re-establishment in this republic of constitutional government, conducted with honesty, economy and fidelity, and with impartial regard for the rights of every citizen, and the highest good of the entire people.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Adopted at Concord, September 25, 1908.

We cordially endorse the national platform, and pledge our best efforts in support of Bryan and Kern.

We demand the abolition of the lobby and the free pass, revision of tax laws, increase in railroad taxes, election of railroad commissioners by the people, direct primaries, publication of campaign contributions, employers' liability law, enforcement of labor laws, initiative and referendum, genuine local option and equal school facilities.

We oppose Republican extravagance, Boston & Maine railroad methods in politics and transportation, and its domination of the state.

We denounce the hypocrisy of the Republican party in nominating a Boston & Maine railroad candidate on a reform platform; we point to their broken pledges in the last legislature; and we warn the people of their premeditated treachery in the future.

We hereby pledge our loyal support to the candidates this day nominated.

USE OF SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

BY JOHN FARMER

CONCORD:
CHARLES HOAG AND MOSES G. ATWOOD

ADVERTISEMENT.

The following Catechism, now offered to the public, is intended to give the youth of New-Hampshire a knowledge of the History of their Native State. It contains a familiar description of the most remarkable events which have occurred in this State, from the earliest arrival of our ancestors from England, and their settlement in a barbarous and uncultivated country, more than two centuries ago, when there was little to charm the eye, and less to administer to their wants and necessities. The facts are of undoubted authority, being derived from printed works of high reputation, and from the records and manuscripts in our State archives. It will be seen, that a free use has been made of Dr. Belknap's History of New-Hampshire, a work which should be better known and more read among us.

Concord, October, 1829.

CATECHISM

OF THE

HISTORY OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

CHAPTER I.

First Discovery—Settlement at Portsmouth and Dover—Grant of New-Hampshire by the Council of Plymouth to John Mason—Names of some of the principal settlers—Their character.

Question. When and by whom was New-Hampshire discovered?

Answer. In 1614, by Captain John Smith, who is so distinguished in the history of Virginia.

Q. When and by whom was the first settlement made in New-Hampshire?

A. In the spring of 1623, by Edward and William Hilton, brothers, from England, and David Tompson, from Scotland.

Q. Where did they commence their settlement?

A. The Hiltons seated themselves at Cochecho, afterwards called Dover; Tompson settled Little-Harbor, on the west side of Pascataqua river, and near its mouth, afterwards called Portsmouth.

Q. Under whose patronage were the settlements made?

A. That of the company of Laconia in England, to whom was granted by the council of Plymouth, "all lands situated between the rivers Merrimack and Sagadahock, extending back to the great lakes, and the river Canada."

Q. Where was the first house built?

A. On a peninsula, containing about 500 acres, now called Odiorne's point, which is formed by Little-Harbor on the north-east, and a creek on the south.

Q. Can the spot where this building stood be designated?

A. The present possessors point out the spot, and think they have discovered the foundation of the chimney, and the cellar walls.

Q. Whence did Tompson remove?

A. He went to Massachusetts, and took up his residence on a fertile island in Boston Harbor, which was confirmed to him by the General Court, and which still retains his name.

Q. What became of the Hiltons?

A. Edward remained at Dover some years, where he was much esteemed, but having obtained, in 1639, a grant of land in Exeter, he removed thither before 1652, and there died about 1671, leaving four sons; William lived in several places, such as York, Newbury, and probably Charlestown, where he is supposed to have died in 1675.

Q. Who obtained from the council of Plymouth the sole patent or grant of New-Hampshire?

A. Captain John Mason.

Q. How large a tract of country did his patent include?

A. All the land from the middle part of Merrimack river, northward along the sea coast to Pascataqua river, and up the same to its farthest head, and thence northwestward 60 miles from the first entrance of Pascataqua river, and also through Merrimack river to the farthest head, and into the land westward 60 miles, and from thence to cross over land to the end of the 60 miles from Pascataqua river, together with all the islands and islets within five leagues of these limits.

Q. What is the date of this grant?

A. The seventh of November, 1629.

Q. What remarkable circumstance has been connected with this grant to Captain Mason?

A. A supposed grant of the same territory, made a few months before that of Captain Mason, by four Indian chiefs, to the Rev. John Wheelwright.

Q. When and by whom was this pretended grant discovered to be a forgery?

A. In 1820, by the Honorable James Savage, of Boston, who, in preparing a new edition of Governor Winthrop's Journal, met with certain hints, which led him to doubt the authenticity of Mr. Wheelwright's deed.

Q. Have later discoveries supported the correctness of his opinion?

A. They have;—there having been lately found in the records of the ancient county of Norfolk, the testimony of Mr. Wheelwright himself, showing that his purchase of the Indians was nine years later than the pretended purchase.

Q. For what purpose was the deed probably fabricated?

A. To invalidate the title of Mason, and affect the decision of several suits brought by the heirs or successors of captain Mason, against the inhabitants of New-Hampshire, which suits were long agitated in the highest courts.

Q. Did the settlements increase soon after the grant was made to Mason?

A. They did; for the proprietor sent over stewards and servants, who erected buildings and salt-works on both sides of the harbor and river of the Pascataqua.

Q. Who were some of the principal persons employed?

A. Walter Neal, Francis Williams, Ambrose Gibbons, Thomas Camock, George Vaughan, Henry Josselyn, Edward Godfrey, Henry Sherburne, and Humphrey Chadbourne.

Q. Did the early settlers suffer from want of suitable provisions?

A. They did, for one of their principal men wrote from the settlement in July, 1633, that with a family of ten persons, he had "but half a barrel of corn, and had had but one piece of beef or pork for three months."

Q. What was the first English name of Portsmouth?

A. Strawberry-Bank, which was so called from the large quantity of strawberries which grew on the bank of the river.

Q. How long did it retain this name?

A. Until May, 1653, when it was allowed by the General Court of Massachusetts to be called Portsmouth.

Q. How many families did the place contain at this time?

A. Between fifty and sixty.

Q. Who were the earliest ministers of Dover?

A. William Leveridge, George Burdet, Hanserd Knollys, and Thomas Larkham.

Q. Were these permanently settled there?

A. They were not. The first regularly settled minister of Dover was Daniel Maud, who was settled in 1642, and died in 1655.

Q. Was there any religious church or society at Portsmouth at an early period?

A. There was a small Episcopal Society, which had for its minister Richard Gibson, who remained there but a short time.

Q. What was the character of the early settlers at Portsmouth and Dover?

A. Though not decidedly religious, as was the character of the Plymouth pilgrims, it was respectable. The Hiltons had been fish merchants in London, and are supposed to have descended from the ancient family of Hiltons, mentioned by Guillim in his Heraldry; Tompson was from Scotland; Camock was nephew to the Earl of Warwick; Neal and Williams were afterwards governors of the plantation; Wiggin was one of the assistants or counsellors of Massachusetts; Josselyn was a brother to John Josselyn, a celebrated traveller who published the Rarities of New England; and Godfrey was the first mayor of Agamenticus or York, in Maine.

CHAPTER II.

Settlement of Exeter—Mr. Wheelwright's purchase of the Indians—Pequot War—Union of New-Hampshire with Massachusetts—Governors during the Union.

Q. When and by whom was Exeter settled?

A. In 1638, by the Rev. John Wheelwright; and several persons from Massachusetts.

Q. From whom did Mr. Wheelwright derive his title to the lands?

A. From several Indian Sagamores, residing in the neighborhood of Squamscot falls.

Q. How much land did Mr. Wheelwright purchase?

A. Thirty miles square— "lying within three miles on the northern side of Merrimack river, extending 30 miles along by the river from the sea side, and from the said river to Pascataqua Patent, 30 miles up into the country north west, and so from the falls of Pascataqua to Oyster river, 30 miles square every way."

Q. Are the original deeds conveying this tract in existence?

A. They are, and are quite legible, and have been lately published by the New-Hampshire Historical Society in the first volume of their Collections.

Q. How long did Mr. Wheelwright remain at Exeter?

A. He remained there about three years, when the inhabitants having submitted to the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, from which he had been banished before his settlement at Exeter, he was obliged to remove elsewhere.

Q. What became of Mr. Wheelwright?

A. He removed to Wells, where he was the minister some time, from whence he went to England where he resided a few years, but returned after the restoration, and was settled at Salisbury, where he died 15 November, 1679, one of the oldest ministers then in New-England.

Q. For what was the year 1637 remarkable?

A. For a war against the Pequot Indians in Connecticut, who had killed several of the English, and destroyed some of their property.

Q. How did this war end?

A. In the complete destruction of that brave and unfortunate race. The English attacked them in their fort at Mistick, and in less than the space of two hours, destroyed 70 wigwams by fire, and from 500 to 600 Indians, either by the sword or flames.

Q. When was the first earthquake, recorded in the history of New-England?

A. On the 1 of June, 1638, when the earth shook with such violence, that in some places, the people could not stand in the streets, without difficulty; and most moveable articles in houses were thrown down.

Q. What was the government of the several towns of New-Hampshire for several years after their early settlement?

A. Republican. Each settlement was a separate republic, which had a chief officer, styled the governor.

Q. When did a change take place in regard to the government of these settlements?

A. In 1641, when they severally submitted to the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, and engaged "to be ruled and ordered in all causes, criminal and civil, and to be subject to pay in church and commonwealth as the inhabitants of Massachusetts-Bay."

Q. How long did this union with Massachusetts subsist?

A. Until the year 1679.

Q. Who were the governors of Massachusetts and New-Hampshire while they were thus united?

A. Their names and the years they were in office are contained in the following table.

Richard Bellingham was in office.....	1641
John Winthrop	1642 & 1643
John Endecott	1644
Thomas Dudley	1645
John Winthrop	1646 to 1648
John Endecott	1649
Thomas Dudley	1650
John Endecott	1651 to 1653
Richard Bellingham	1654
John Endecott	1655 to 1664
Richard Bellingham	1665 to 1672
John Leverett	1673 to 1678
Simon Bradstreet	1679

CHAPTER III.

Settlement of Hampton—Rev. S. Batchelor—Visit to the White Mountains—Combination against wearing long hair and using tobacco—Mint—Persecution of the Quakers.

Q. When and by whom was Hampton settled?

A. In 1638, by a number of persons chiefly from the county of Norfolk, in England.

Q. What were the names of some of the principal settlers?

A. Timothy Dalton, Stephen Batchelor, who were the first ministers of the church, Jeffrey Mingay, Philemon Dalton, a brother of the minister, Richard Swain, John Moulton, William Hayward, Christopher Hussey, William Eastow, and William Fuller.

Q. How long was Mr. Dalton the minister of Hampton?

A. From 1638 to the 28 of December, 1661, when he died, somewhat advanced in years.

Q. What became of Mr. Batchelor?

A. He ceased to be the minister in 1641, and after several changes in his residence, he returned to England about the year 1654, when he was 93 years old, leaving a wife and children in this country, to whom, it is probable, he was never re-united.

Q. Was Hampton considered as belonging to Massachusetts when it was settled?

A. It was; and continued to belong to that colony until New-Hampshire was made a royal province.

Q. To what county did the towns of Portsmouth, Exeter and Hampton belong?

A. To the county of Norfolk, which also embraced Salisbury and Haverhill, and of which, Salisbury was a shire town.

Q. Does this county still exist?

A. It does not; it became extinct when New-Hampshire became a province. The towns belonging to it in Massachusetts were annexed to the county of Essex.

Q. What were the Indian names of the first towns settled in New-Hampshire?

A. Dover was called Cochecho; Portsmouth was Pascataqua; Exeter was Squamscut; and Hampton was Winicowett.

Q. What was the name of the principal Indian, from whom Mr. Wheelwright made his purchase?

A. Wehanownowit, or, as it was probably pronounced by the English, Wehangnonaway.

Q. When, and by whom were the White Mountains first visited?

A. In 1642, by Darby Field, an Irishman, of ^{Durham} Exeter, who was accompanied by two Indians.

Q. How long was he in performing the journey?

A. Eighteen days.

Q. What account did he give on his return?

A. That "within twelve miles of the top [there] was neither tree nor grass but low savins, which they went on the top of sometimes, but a continual ascent upon rocks, on a ridge between two valleys filled with snow, out of which came two branches of the Saco river, which met at the foot of the hill."

Q. Did he meet with any inhabitants in his journey?

A. He did. At the foot of this hill, he found an Indian town, with about 200 people, some of whom accompanied him within eight miles of the summit, "but durst go no further, telling him that no Indian ever dared to go higher, and that he would die if he went."

Q. What rendered the year 1647 remarkable?

A. An epidemic disease in the West Indies, of which there died in Barbadoes 6000. An epidemic also passed through the colonies on the great American continent, but the mortality was not great.

Q. What singular combination was entered into by some of the principal men of the country in 1649?

A. That against the wearing of long hair, which they declared to be "uncivil and unmanly, whereby men deform themselves, offend sober and modest men, and corrupt good manners."

Q. What other customs were offensive to our puritan fathers?

A. The use of tobacco, the smoke of which was compared to the smoke of the bottomless pit, and the wearing of wigs, which Governor Hutchinson says, were an eyesore in New-England for thirty years.

Q. When and where was the first mint established?

A. In the year 1652, at Boston.

Q. What pieces of money were coined?

A. Shillings, six-pences, and three-pences.

Q. When began the persecution of the Quakers?

A. In the year 1656.

Q. What was the first special law for their punishment, and the punishment of those who brought them into the country?

A. The imposing fine of £100 upon any master of a vessel, who should bring any known quaker into any part of the colony; requiring him to give security to carry him back again; the sending to the house of correction such quaker, who being whipped 20 stripes, was to be afterward kept to hard labour until transportation.

Q. What further laws, inflicting punishment, were passed by the government of Massachusetts?

A. That any quaker, after the first conviction, if a man, should lose one ear, and a second time, the other; a woman each time to be severely whipped; and the third time, man or woman, to have their tongues bored through with a red hot iron.

Q. What was the consequence of these laws?

A. The number of quakers increased instead of diminishing.

Q. What sanguinary law followed the preceding?

A. That of punishing with death all quakers, who should return into the jurisdiction after banishment.

Q. What regard did the inhabitants of Portsmouth show to the interests of literature in 1669?

A. They agreed to give £60 per annum, for seven years, to Harvard college.

Q. What is said of the weather of New-England in the summer of 1675?

A. That it was so cold on the 5 of June, as to freeze water.

CHAPTER IV.

Philip's war—Indian depredations in New-Hampshire—Settlement of Dunstable—Jo English.

Q. When did the Narraganset or king Philip's war commence?

A. On the 24 of June, 1675, when nine persons were killed by the Indians at Swanzey, in the colony of Plymouth.

Q. By whom were the Indians instigated to begin the war?

A. By Philip, who was king of the Wampanoags, and whose residence was at Mount Hope, near Bristol.

Q. What led to the conclusion of this war?

A. The discouragement of the Indians, who became divided, scattered and disheartened, and began to surrender themselves to the English, and finally the death of Philip, who was shot through the heart on the 12 August, 1676, by one of his own tribe.

Q. What impressions did the death of Philip make at the time of the event?

A. It was considered as the extinction of a virulent and implacable enemy.

Q. How is the event now regarded?

A. As the fall of a great warrior, a penetrating statesman, and a mighty prince.

Q. What were some of the sad effects of this war?

A. About 600 of the inhabitants of New-England, composing its principal strength, were either killed in battle, or murdered by the enemy; twelve of thirteen towns were entirely destroyed, and about 600 buildings, chiefly dwelling houses, were burnt.

Q. Did the people of New-Hampshire suffer much in this war?

A. They did, but less than their exposed situation would have supposed.

Q. In what way were the people in Mr. Tozer's house at Newichwannock saved?

A. By the intrepidity of a girl of eighteen. She first seeing the Indians as they advanced to the house, shut the door and stood against it, till the family, consisting of fifteen women and children, escaped to the next house, which was better secured. The Indians chopped the door to pieces with their hatchets, and then entering, they knocked her down, and leaving her for dead, went in pursuit of the others, of whom two children, who could not get over the fence, fell into their hands. The adventurous heroine recovered, and was perfectly healed of her wound.

Q. When was Dunstable incorporated? (Nashua)

A. On the 15 October, 1673, having been settled several years before, by people of Massachusetts, under which government it remained until the year 1741.

Q. Who was the first minister of the town?

A. Rev. Thomas Weld, a native of Roxbury, who graduated at Harvard college in 1671.

Q. How long was he the settled minister of the place?

A. From the 16 December, 1685, when he was ordained, until 9 of June, 1702, when he died in his 50th year.

Q. Was Dunstable the scene of early Indian depredations?

A. It was; but the people were bold and successful in resisting their attacks.

Q. In what way were the people there often apprised of the designs of the Indians?

A. By means of an Indian, who from his affection to the English, and in disclosing the plots of his kindred, received the name of Jo English.

Q. What finally became of him?

A. He was killed by some of his own tribe in the year 1706, as he was attending Capt. Butterfield and his wife, on horseback, from Dunstable to Chelmsford. The Indians had for a long time endeavored to take him prisoner, and at this time were about effecting their purpose, when Jo left the road, near which the Indians rose in ambush, and with great speed, took his course towards a thicket, in which he would have eluded their pursuit. Being on the point of gaining it, the Indians fired upon him and brought him to the ground, and coming up to him, said, "Now, we have you, Jo," and soon dispatched him with their tomahawks.

CHAPTER V.

Provincial Government—Administration of John Cutt, Richard Waldron, Edward Cranfield, and Walter Barefoote—Prosecution of Joshua Moody.

Q. When was New-Hampshire separated from Massachusetts?

A. In 1679, when a commission for a separate government passed the great seal of England.

Q. What kind of government was established by this commission?

A. The people were represented in a body chosen by themselves; and the king was represented by a president and council of his own appointment; he retaining the prerogative of disannulling the acts of the whole at his pleasure.

Q. Was the separation in accordance with the wishes of New-Hampshire?

A. It was not; "being much against their will."

Q. What was the number of qualified voters at this time in the province?

A. Two hundred and nine; Portsmouth having 71, Dover 61, Hampton 57, and Exeter 20.

Q. Who was the first president of the province?

A. John Cutt, an aged and respectable merchant of Portsmouth, who came, it is said, from Wales, and had resided in New-Hampshire between 30 and 40 years.

Q. How long was he in office?

A. But little more than a year, as he died 27 March, 1681.

Q. Who were appointed his council?

A. Richard Martyn, William Vaughan, Thomas Daniel, of Portsmouth; John Gilman, of Exeter; Christopher Hussey, of Hampton; and Richard Waldron, of Dover.

Q. Who was the successor of president Cutt?

A. Major Richard Waldron, a brave and useful officer, and one of the principal men of Dover. He came from the county of Somerset, in England, and had for 22 years represented the town of Dover in the general court of Massachusetts, and had been speaker of the house a number of years.

Q. Who succeeded Major Waldron as head of the government?

A. Edward Cranfield, who, as lieutenant-governor, began his administration in 1682, and remained in office until 1685.

Q. What was the number of inhabitants and of the militia, on his accession to the government?

A. There were about 4000 inhabitants and 450 militia.

Q. What was the character of his administration?

A. It was arbitrary and oppressive in a high degree, but fortunately for the people, its duration was short.

Q. What singular instance of his assumption of unwarrantable power is recorded in history?

A. The sentencing without bail or mainprise of Joshua Moodey, the minister of Portsmouth, to six months' imprisonment, because he refused to administer to Edward Cranfield, Robert Mason, and John Hinckes, "the Lord's supper in such manner as was set forth in the book of Common Prayer."

Q. Was this sentence carried into effect?

A. It was nearly so. Mr. Moodey was immediately ordered into custody, without being permitted to see his family, and remained under confinement, with liberty of the yard, for thirteen weeks, and his benefice was declared forfeited to the crown.

Q. What became of Mr. Moodey?

A. Through the interposition of his friends, he obtained a release, though under strict charges to preach no more in New-Hampshire. He went to Boston in 1684, where he was an assistant minister of the first church until 1693, when he returned to his people at Portsmouth. He was a distinguished and useful man, and died at Boston, while on a visit, 6 July, 1697, in the 65th year of his age.

Q. Who succeeded Cranfield?

A. Walter Barefoote, who officiated as deputy-governor about one year.

CHAPTER VI.

Dudley and Andros's Administration.

Q. What change took place in the government of New-Hampshire and Massachusetts in 1686?

A. Joseph Dudley was appointed president over both provinces, but exercised his authority only a few months, being succeeded by Sir Edmund Andros.

Q. Over what portion of territory did the authority of Andros extend?

A. The whole of New-England.

Q. When did he arrive at Boston to assume the government?

A. On the 20 December, 1686.

Q. What was the character of his administration?

A. It was oppressive and tyrannical. He and his council made laws at their own pleasure. Persons were imprisoned by him, and fined from £20 to £50, for voting "to petition the king for liberty of an assembly, before they make any rates."

Q. What course did the people take under such oppression?

A. Some of the principal colonists of Massachusetts sent Increase Mather, one of the ministers in Boston, to England, as an agent to make known their grievances to king James II.

Q. Did the people patiently wait until they could know the success of their agent, before they adopted violent measures?

A. They did not, but, exasperated at the increasing tyranny of their oppressors, they collected around Boston in a considerable body on the 18 April, 1689, and took their governor, Sir Edmund Andros, a prisoner, with about fifty others, who had supported his measures, and put them in confinement.

Q. What became of Sir Edmund?

A. He was sent to England by an order from king William, given at Whitehall, 30 July, 1689, but he escaped without any punishment. He was afterwards governor of Virginia, and died in London, in February, 1714, at an advanced age.

Q. What was the government of New-Hampshire after Andros was deposed?

A. The people, by a voluntary act, became again united to Massachusetts, and so remained until that colony received a new charter from king William and queen Mary.

CHAPTER VII.

Indian attack on the town of Dover.

Q. What led to the attack on Dover, in the year 1689?

A. The unjustifiable seizure of 400 Indians, in 1675.

Q. What were the circumstances of this seizure?

A. The government of Massachusetts having ordered captains Sill and Hathorne to march eastward in pursuit of the hostile Indians, they arrived on the 6 of September at the house of major Waldron in Dover, where they found 400 Indians assembled, most of whom were on friendly terms with him, and regarded him as a benefactor and friend. The two captains having orders to seize all Indians who had joined in the late war, would have attacked this body, but were dissuaded from it by major Waldron.

Q. What stratagem did Waldron propose to secure them, and what was its success?

A. He proposed to the whole Indian party a training and shamfight after the English custom. He then formed another party consisting of his own men and those of captain Frost of Kittery. Having diverted the Indians a short time, and permitted them to fire the first volley, he made a dexterous movement, and before they could understand his intentions, surrounded their whole body, seized and disarmed them, without shedding blood on either side.

Q. What was done with the captives?

A. They were immediately separated. Those who had made peace the preceding winter were amicably dismissed; but the hostile Indians, to the number of about 200, were secured and sent to Boston. Seven or eight of them, who had been guilty of former murders, were hanged, and the rest were sold as slaves in foreign parts.

Q. How did the Indians who were discharged regard the conduct of Waldron?

A. They viewed it as a breach of faith, and swore against him eternal and implacable revenge.

Q. How long was it before they found an opportunity of executing their threats?

A. Almost thirteen years, when several, who had been sold into slavery, escaped and returned home, with a burning thirst for revenge, and entered into a confederacy to surprise the major and his neighbors.

Q. What was the number of garrisoned houses at this time about the falls, where the major resided?

A. There were five, which were occupied by major Waldron,

Richard Otis, John Heard, Peter Coffin, and a son of Peter Coffin.

Q. How were these houses fortified?

A. They were surrounded by timber walls, the gate of which, as well as the doors of the houses, were secured with bolts and bars.

Q. Was there no apprehension of danger from the Indians, at this time, by major Waldron?

A. Not in the least. So perfectly secure did the major fancy himself, that he laughed at the fears of his men, who suspected that the Indians intended an attack, and told them to "plant their pumpkins, and he would take care of the Indians;" and on the very evening before the alarm, when informed the town was full of Indians, he answered, "that the Indians behaved very well, and there was no danger."

Q. What plot did the Indians concert in order to enter the garrisons?

A. That two squaws should go to each of the garrisoned houses, and ask leave to lodge by the fire, and that in the night, when all the men were asleep, they should open the doors and gates, and give the signal by a whistle, upon which the strange Indians, who were within hearing, were to rush in and gratify their long meditated revenge.

Q. Did they succeed in this way, in gaining admission into the garrisons?

A. The squaws were admitted into all the garrisons but the younger Coffin's, and were instructed, at their own request, how to open the doors, in case they should wish to go out during the night.

CHAPTER VIII.

Attack on Dover (Continued)—Death of Major Waldron.

Q. When did the Indians commence the work of destruction, and whose garrison did they first enter?

A. In the stillness of midnight, on the 27 June, the gates were opened and the signal was given. The Indians immediately entered major Waldron's garrison, and stationed a guard at his door, and rushed into his apartment which was one of the inner rooms.

Q. What became of major Waldron?

A. Awakened by the tumult, the major sprang from his bed, and though near 80 years of age, he retained so much of his youthful vigor as to drive them with his sword through two or three doors, but as he was returning for his other arms, they levelled him with a blow from behind, which left him senseless. Having dragged him into his hall, they placed him in an elbow chair, on a long table, and insultingly asked him, "who shall be the judge of Indians now?" They then compelled the people in the house to provide them food, and when they had finished their repast, they cruelly inflicted gashes on different parts of the major's body, saying, "we thus cross out our account;" till at last, exhausted with the loss of blood, he was falling from the table, when one of the Indians holding his own sword under him, in this manner relieved him from his sufferings. They then plundered the house and set it on fire.

Q. How did they succeed in their attack on Otis's garrison?

A. It shared the same fate with Waldron's. Otis himself, with several others, were put to death, and his wife and children were taken prisoners.

Q. How was Heard's garrison saved?

A. It was saved by the barking of a dog, the moment the Indians were entering. Elder Wentworth was awakened by the noise. He repelled those who first entered, and falling upon his back, he kept the door closed with his feet, till he had given the alarm. Two balls were fired through the door, but missed him.

Q. How did they treat the elder Coffin's house?

A. They attacked it, but having no particular enmity against him, they spared him and his family, and contented themselves with pillage.

Q. In what way did they proceed against the younger Coffin's house?

A. He not having admitted the squaws, they summoned him to surrender, promising him quarter. Withstanding their offers, and resolving to defend his house, the Indians brought forward his father, and threatening to put him to death, his filial affection overwhelmed his courage, and he surrendered.

Q. How did the Coffin families escape?

A. Being put into a deserted house as prisoners, they all escaped while the Indians were engaged in their work of plunder.

Q. How many people were killed and captured in this attack?

A. There were 23 killed and 29 made captive. Five or six dwelling houses, together with the mills, were burnt.

Q. Did the Indians escape without being attacked by the English?

A. They did. They were so rapid in their operations, that they escaped with their prisoners and booty, before the people could collect from the town to oppose them.

Q. What happened to Mrs. Elizabeth Heard?

A. She with her three sons, and a daughter, and several other persons, were returning in the night from Portsmouth. They passed up the river in their boats unperceived by the Indians, who then had possession of the garrisons. Apprehending danger from some noise, which they heard, they landed and bent their steps to major Waldron's garrison, where they observed lights, which they supposed were held out to those who were seeking refuge. They knocked, and entreated admission; but no answer being given, one of the party ascended the wall, and to his astonishment and alarm he saw an Indian stationed with his gun at the door of the house. Mrs. Heard, in the agony of fright, lost all power of escape; but she implored her children to fly and save themselves: they left her with heavy hearts. She soon recovered herself, and crept into some bushes, and there lay concealed until daylight, at which time she perceived an Indian approaching her with a pistol in his hand, who looked into her face, and went away. He immediately returned, and looked at her again. She then spoke to him; but without making any answer, he went off and she saw no more of him. She continued in her concealment till the conflagration was over, and the Indians were gone. She then went to her house and found it safe.

Q. To what cause is this conduct of the Indian to be ascribed?

A. To the power of gratitude, which seems innate in the breast of a savage. This Indian, at the time of major Waldron's stratagem in 1675, escaped and took refuge in Mrs. Heard's house. In return for her kindness in concealing him, he promised that he would never, in any future war, injure her nor any of her family.

CHAPTER IX.

Administration of Samuel Allen, John Usher, and William Partridge—Witchcraft delusion—Indian depredations.

A. Who was the first governor after the second separation from Massachusetts?

A. Samuel Allen, whose commission, dated 1 of March, 1692, was brought over by his son-in-law John Usher, who arrived at Portsmouth, 13 August, and undertook the administration of the government, much against the wishes of the people.

Q. How long was he in office as lieutenant-governor?

A. About eighteen years, under both his commissions.

Q. What is his history?

A. He was a native of Boston, and born 27 April, 1648. He was educated a stationer, and sustained a fair character in trade. He was unpopular among his countrymen, for his support of Sir Edmund Andros, and for accepting the office of treasurer under him. He affected a severity in his department, was loud in conversation, stern in command, and often found fault. His speeches were always incorrect, and sometimes coarse and reproachful. He removed to Medford, Massachusetts, where he died 5 September, 1726, aged 78.

Q. What is known of governor Allen?

A. He was a merchant in London, and purchased the claim of Mason to New-Hampshire. He came to New-Hampshire, 15 September, 1698, and entered upon the duties of his office, but was superseded the next year. He died 5 May, 1705, in the 70th year of his age.

Q. What was his character?

A. He is represented as a gentleman of no remarkable abilities, of a solitary rather than a social disposition, but mild, obliging, and charitable.

Q. What remarkable delusion prevailed in Massachusetts in 1692?

A. That of supposed witchcraft, which was principally confined to the county of Essex, bordering on New-Hampshire.

Q. How many people lost their lives by means of this delusion?

A. Twenty persons, of whom 19 were executed by hanging, and one by being pressed to death, all of whom asserted their innocence.

Q. What put a stop to such cruel proceedings?

A. The great number of accusations against people of irreproachable lives, some of whom were in the higher walks of life.

Q. Who was the successor of lieutenant-governor Usher?

A. He was succeeded, in 1697, by William Partridge, a native of Portsmouth, who was bred a shipwright, and distinguished for his skill in naval architecture, and other mechanic arts. He was also known as a merchant. He remained in office until 1703, when he removed to Newbury, where he died 3 January, 1729, in his 75th year.

CHAPTER X.

Attack of Indians on Durham—Capture of Hannah Duston.

Q. When did the Indians attack Oyster River settlement, now the town of Durham?

A. On the 17 July, 1694.

Q. What were some of the circumstances of the attack?

A. Two hundred and fifty Indians, commanded by Villieu, a Frenchman, and attended by a French priest, approached the place undiscovered, and halted near the falls, formed into two divisions, one of which was to go on each side of the river, and plant themselves in ambush, in small parties near every house, so as to be ready for the attack at the rising of the sun; the first gun to be the signal. Their plan was in part disconcerted, by firing at a man who, intending to go from home very early, arose before the dawn of day. The people in general were alarmed by this firing, and some of them had time to make their escape, and others to prepare for their defense. The signal being given, the attack began in all parts where the enemy was ready.

Q. What was the loss and destruction occasioned by this attack?

A. Between ninety and one hundred persons were killed and taken prisoners, five of the twelve garrisoned houses in the place were burned, besides fifteen other houses which were not garrisoned.

Q. In what manner did John Beckford preserve his garrison?

A. Hearing the alarm before the enemy reached his house, which was situated near the river, and surrounded with a pali-sade, he sent off his family in a boat, and then shutting his gate, betook himself alone to the defence of his fortress. Despising alike the promises and threats by which the Indians would have persuaded him to surrender, he kept up a constant fire at them, changing his dress as often as he could, showing himself with a different cap, hat, or coat, and sometimes without either, and giving directions aloud as if he had a number of men with him. Finding their attempt vain, the enemy withdrew, and left him sole master of the house which he had defended with such admirable success.

Q. When was Mrs. Hannah Duston captured by the Indians, at Haverhill in Massachusetts?

A. On the 15 March, 1697.

Q. In what manner was she taken, and how did she effect her escape?

A. She was taken from her bed by the Indians, and with her nurse, and infant child of six days old, carried into the wilderness. The savages soon dispatched the child by dashing its head against a tree. They proceeded slowly up the Merrimack river, until they came to an island at the mouth of Contoocook river, now called Duston's island, near the town of Concord in New-Hampshire, where the prisoners were told, that upon their arrival at an Indian village, some distance to the north, they would be stripped, and be obliged to run the gantlet. Dreading the exposure and pain of so cruel a punishment, Mrs. Duston formed the design of destroying the whole company of Indians, to whom she belonged, and therefore made known her intentions to her nurse, and a young lad by the name of Samuel Leonardson, who was also a captive, and prevailed on them to assist her. Accordingly, a little before day, on the 5 of April, finding the Indians to be in a sound sleep, she and her companions commenced the work of death, and killed two men, two women, and six others, and took from them their scalps, and in one of their bark canoes, went down the Merrimack, and returned in safety to Haverhill.

Q. What reward did she receive for courage and heroism?

A. She carried the scalps to Boston, where she received a grant of £50 from the General Court of Massachusetts, besides several valuable presents from strangers, and particularly one from the governor of New-York.

Q. Can the conduct of Mrs. Duston in taking so many human lives be defended on the strict rules of morality?

A. Probably not. Though there are many precedents, and some of high authority that might be urged in behalf of the captives, yet the slaughter of so many persons would be questioned by the exact moralist, and can admit of no defence on the pure principles of christianity. The conduct of Mrs. Duston, at the time, was thought lawful and highly meritorious, and received the approbation of ministers and people.

CHAPTER XI.

Administration of the Earl of Bellomont, Joseph Dudley, and Samuel Shute—Lovewell's battle—Great Earthquake in 1727.

Q. Who became the governor of New-York, Massachusetts, and New-Hampshire, in 1699?

A. Richard, earl of Bellomont, who was appointed to office in 1695, but did not arrive at New-York until May, 1698. He came to Boston, 26 May, 1699, and from thence to New-Hampshire. He died at New-York, 5 March, 1701. He was the only nobleman ever at the head of any of the New-England governments.

Q. What was his character?

A. He was condescending, affable and courteous, and rendered himself very popular to the people.

Q. Who succeeded him?

A. Joseph Dudley, already mentioned as president of New-England, who published his commission at Portsmouth, 11 July, 1702.

Q. What is known of governor Dudley?

A. He was a son of governor Thomas Dudley, and was born at Roxbury, 23 September, 1647. He received his education at Harvard college, and was soon brought into public life, being elected a representative when 25 years old, and a counsellor when less than 30. He was an officer in Philip's war, and in 1682 was sent to England as agent for Massachusetts; returned as president of New-England in 1686, went again to England in 1689, and returned as chief justice of New-York in 1690. He was eight years lieutenant-governor of the Isle of Wight. He was governor of Massachusetts and New-Hampshire from 1702 to 1705, and died at Roxbury, 2 April, 1720, in his 73rd year.

Q. What was his character?

A. He was a man of learning, an accomplished gentleman, ambitious in his views, even at the expense of the interests of his country; fond of ceremony in government; was attached to congregational principles, and an observer of the duties of religion.

Q. Who was lieutenant-governor of New-Hampshire under governor Dudley?

A. George Vaughan, son of William Vaughan, of Portsmouth, one of the province counsellors.

Q. What is known of lieutenant-governor Vaughan?

A. He was born in New-Hampshire, 13 April, 1676; graduated at Harvard college in 1696; went to England, where he was employed as agent for his native province, to which he returned in October, 1715, with his commission. He died in December, 1725, aged 49, leaving two sons and five daughters.

Q. Who succeeded governor Dudley?

A. Samuel Shute in 1716, who had been an officer under the duke of Marlborough, a celebrated English general, and had been wounded in one of the principal battles in Flanders.

Q. How long was he in office?

A. About six years. He returned to England, and there died 15 April, 1742, aged 80 years.

Q. Who was lieutenant-governor under Shute?

A. John Wentworth, who was second in command from the departure of Shute in 1723, and from that time commander in chief until his death, 12 December, 1727, at the age of 59.

Q. What was the character of John Wentworth?

A. He was remarkably civil and kind to strangers; respectful to ministers of the gospel, showing a constant regard to the duties of divine worship in private and public; compassionate and bountiful to the poor; and courteous and affable to all.

Q. What remarkable events happened during the time he was in office?

A. The greatest snow ever known in New England, which fell in February and March, 1717, to the depth of eight feet on a level; the declaration of war against all hostile tribes of Indians, and a bounty of £100 for every Indian scalp; the memorable battle between captain John Lovewell with the Indians, and the occurrence of the most violent and extensive earthquake known in the country.

Q. When and where was Lovewell's battle fought?

A. On the 8 of May, 1725, at the village of Pequawkett, in Fryeburg, Maine.

Q. What was the character of this battle?

A. It was one of the most fierce and obstinate which had been fought with the Indians. Out of 34 men, which composed Lovewell's company, 18 were killed, or perished from the wounds they received.

Q. What act of public gratitude did the survivors, and the heirs of those who were slain in battle, receive?

A. The grant of a township on Merrimack river, called Suncook, now Pembroke, one of the most pleasantly situated towns in New-Hampshire.

Q. Who was the last survivor of this brave company?

A. Noah Johnson, who died at Plymouth, in New-Hampshire, 13 August, 1798, in the 100th year of his age. He was a venerable patriarch, by whose death, a period was put to that band of heroes, who 73 years before, conquered the fierce and warlike Pequawketts, and the last and most venerable scars then inflicted, descended to the grave.

Q. When did the earthquake, alluded to above, happen?

A. On the 29 October, 1727.

Q. What were the circumstances and effects attending it?

A. It commenced about 40 minutes past ten in the night, in a very clear and serene sky, "when every thing seemed to be in a most perfect calm and tranquility." The motion was undulatory. The doors, windows, and moveables, made a fearful clattering. Stone walls and the tops of chimneys were shaken down. Its duration was about two minutes.

CHAPTER XII.

Administration of William Burnet and Jonathan Belcher—Settlement of Londonderry—First public Execution—Throat Distemper.

Q. Who was the next chief magistrate of New-Hampshire after John Wentworth?

A. William Burnet, who was appointed governor of New-York and New-Jersey in 1720, and of Massachusetts and New-Hampshire in 1728.

Q. What is known of governor Burnet?

A. He was the son of Gilbert Burnet, bishop of Salisbury in England, and was born at the Hague in Holland, in March, 1688, arrived at Boston, in July, 1728, and was received with unusual pomp.

Q. How long was he in office?

A. But little more than a year, as he died 7 September, 1729, at the age of 41.

Q. Who succeeded him?

A. Jonathan Belcher, the last governor whose commission united both Massachusetts & New-Hampshire.

Q. What is governor Belcher's biography?

A. He was son of Andrew Belcher, a member of the council of Massachusetts, and was born in January, 1682, and was educated at Harvard college, received his first degree when 17 years of age. He went to England, and was absent six years; returned and became a merchant in Boston, was elected one of the council, and in 1729, was sent to England as agent for his native province, and returned in 1730, as governor. He was removed from office in 1741, in consequence of false charges made by his enemies; but he repaired to court and made his innocence appear and was restored to royal favor, received the appointment of governor of New-Jersey, in which province he died 31 August, 1757, in his 76th year.

Q. What was governor Belcher's character?

A. It has perhaps been viewed in too favorable a light. For though he was distinguished for a regular attendance on the duties of religion and often expressed his high sense of its importance; for his dignity of deportment, frankness, love of justice, truth and benevolence, he was extremely liberal in his censures, both in conversation and letters, and was particularly bitter against his enemies, bestowing upon them in his private correspondence, and upon some who were high in office, terms of severe reproach, and coarse and ludicrous epithets.

Q. Who was the lieutenant-governor under Belcher?

A. David Dunbar, a native of Ireland and a reduced colonel in the British service.

Q. How long was he in office?

A. From 1731, until the accession of Benning Wentworth in 1741.

Q. When and by whom was Londonderry settled?

A. On the 11 of April, 1719, by sixteen families, who came the preceding year from Ireland. They were of Scotch descent, their ancestors having emigrated about the year 1618 from Scotland to Londonderry, in the north of Ireland.

Q. Who was their first minister?

A. Rev. James Macgregore, who conducted their religious services, on the day of their arrival at Nutfield, as it was then called, and delivered a sermon under an oak, on the east shore of Beaver Pond.

Q. How long did he live after the settlement commenced?

A. About ten years; as he died 5 March, 1729, at the age of 52 years.

Q. What improvement did the people of Londonderry introduce into the country?

A. The culture of the potato, and the manufacture of linen cloth, which was aided by the foot spinning wheel.

Q. What was the progress of the town during the first nine years?

A. It was great, as may be believed from the fact that within five years, Mr. Macgregore's church consisted of 230 members, and in 1728, the town paid more than one fifteenth of province tax, although several large towns had been settled almost a century.

Q. What change took place in regard to Londonderry in 1827?

A. The town was divided into two separate towns: the ancient part received the name of Derry, and the other part retaining its former name of Londonderry.

Q. When was the first public execution in New-Hampshire?

A. On the 27 December, 1739, when Sarah Simpson and Penelope Kenney were executed at Portsmouth, for the murder of an infant child.

Q. What destructive epidemic prevailed in 1735 and 1736?

A. The throat distemper (cynanche maligna) which made its appearance at Kingston in May, 1735.

CHAPTER XIII.

Boundary Line settled—Benning Wentworth governor—Events during his administration—Defence of Charlestown by Capt. Phineas Stevens—French and Indian War—John Wentworth governor—Dartmouth College founded—Presidents of Dartmouth College.

Q. When and by whom was the boundary line between Massachusetts and New-Hampshire established?

A. In the year 1741, by the determination of the king in council.

Q. Had there been much controversy on adjusting the line?

A. There had, and its settlement had been a source of many difficulties, and had been attended with much expense.

Q. How much more land did New-Hampshire receive by this settlement than it had ever claimed?

A. A tract of country about 50 miles in length, and 14 miles in breadth.

Q. Who was appointed the first separate governor of New-Hampshire?

A. Benning Wentworth, who began his administration in 1741.

Q. What is known of him?

A. He was the son of John Wentworth, the former lieutenant governor, and was born in 1696. He was educated at Harvard college; and, in his 36th year, was appointed one of the council. He went to England a few years afterwards, and while there, obtained his commission as governor. He sustained the office twenty-five years, a period longer than any one who preceded or has succeeded him. He died at Portsmouth, 14 October, 1770, aged 74 years.

Q. What was his public character?

A. In his administration, he was faithful to the king, and endeavored to promote the welfare of the people. But, in appointing men to fill the most important offices, he was censured for selecting his particular friends and near connexions.

Q. What were some of the most important events during his administration?

A. The capture of Louisburg, a strongly fortified place on the island of Cape Breton, in 1745; the depopulation of several new towns on the Connecticut river by the ravages of the Indians; by a long French and Indian war, in which many lives from New-Hampshire were lost; a great earthquake in 1755; the capture of Canada from the French, in 1759; the death of George II.; in 1760, the establishment of a printing press in the province; and the Stamp Act, in 1765.

Q. To whom has the honor of projecting the Louisburg expedition been ascribed?

A. To William Vaughan, a native of New-Hampshire, and the son of lieutenant-governor George Vaughan.

Q. What number of troops was furnished for the expedition from New-Hampshire?

A. About 500, of whom 300 formed one regiment, which was placed under the command of colonel Samuel Moore. The remainder were enlisted in the pay of Massachusetts, excepting the crew of an armed ship.

Q. By whom was Charlestown successfully defended, in 1747, when attacked by a large party of French and Indians, under Monsieur Debelinê.

A. Captain Phineas Stevens, who, with 30 men, defended the fort, against the most violent attacks, and horrid menaces.

Q. What mode of attack did the enemy at last resort to?

A. They prepared a wheel carriage, loaded with dry fagots, to be pushed before them, that they might set fire to the fort, but the firmness and intrepidity of captain Stevens and his men prevented the threatened danger.

Q. When did the last French and Indian war begin?

A. In 1755, and which continued until the capture of Quebec, by General Wolfe, in 1759.

Q. In what towns were the people assaulted and killed by the Indians during this war?

A. In Hopkinton, Keene, Walpole, Hinsdale, Winchester and Charlestown, in all of which more or less persons were killed or carried away as captives.

Q. Who were some of the principal officers from New-Hampshire in the French and Indian war?

A. Colonels Joseph Blanchard, Zaccheus Lovewell, Peter Gilman, Nathaniel Messerve, and John Hart; lieutenant-colonel John Goffe; majors Thomas Tash, and Robert Rogers; and captains Nathaniel Folsom, John and William Stark.

Q. When and by whom was printing first established in New-Hampshire?

A. In August, 1756, by Daniel Fowle, from Boston, who set up his press at Portsmouth, and, on the seventh of October, began the New-Hampshire Gazette, which is still continued, and is the oldest paper printed in New-England.

Q. Who was the successor of governor Benning Wentworth?

A. John Wentworth, the son of his brother Mark Hunking Wentworth, who began his administration in 1767.

Q. What important events occurred in New-Hampshire while he was governor?

A. The establishment of Dartmouth College, in 1769; the division of the province into counties, in 1771; the charges of complaint against the governor, by Peter Livius, one of the council; and the commencement of the revolution which separated America from the mother country.

Q. What were the circumstances of the establishment of Dartmouth college?

A. The original design was the foundation of a school for educating the Indians, which was conceived by Mr. John Sergeant, a missionary among them at Stockbridge, who died before his plan could be accomplished. The design was revived by Rev. Eleazar Wheelock, D. D., of Lebanon, Connecticut, who, having established a charity school for the Indians, procured numerous benefactions in different parts of America, in England and Scotland, and at length, in 1769, obtained from governor Wentworth, a charter of incorporation for a university, which took the name of Dartmouth college, and was located at Hanover, on the eastern bank of Connecticut river.

Q. What were the accommodations of the early instructors and students?

A. Similar to those of other settlers on new lands. They built huts of green logs, and lived in them, until a proper edifice could be erected.

Q. Who have been the presidents of Dartmouth college since its first beginning?

A. Eleazer Wheelock, the founder, who was at the head of it ten years, and died in 1779, aged 68; John Wheelock, his son, who was in office about 36 years, and died in 1817, aged 63; Francis Brown, who was in office from 1815, to his death in 1820, aged 36; Daniel Dana, who presided over it part of the years 1820 and 1821; Bennet Tyler, who was in office seven years and Nathan Lord, who was inducted into office, 29 October, 1828. All excepting the second president Wheelock, were clergymen before their accession to the presidency.

Q. What has been the number of graduates at Dartmouth college from the year 1771?

A. Fifteen hundred and seventy seven, of whom about 1200 were living in August, 1828.

Q. Into how many counties was the province divided in 1771?

A. Five, viz.: Rockingham, Strafford, Hillsborough, Cheshire, and Grafton, which were named by governor Wentworth, after some of his friends in England.

Q. How many counties have been added to this number?

A. Three, viz.: Coos in 1803, Merrimack in 1823, and Sullivan in 1827.

CHAPTER XIV.

American War—British attack the militia of Lexington—Battle of Bunker Hill—Character of Gov. Wentworth—Provincial Assembly—Constitution formed.

Q. What were the causes of the American revolution?

A. The arbitrary measures of the British parliament; such as the stamp act for raising a general revenue, which passed in 1766; the act imposing a duty to be paid by the colonists on paper, glass, and painter's colors, and teas imported into the colonies, which passed in 1767, and various restrictions on the commercial interests of the country.

Q. When and where did actual war commence?

A. At Lexington, in Massachusetts, on the 19 April, 1775.

Q. How many British and Americans were killed, wounded, and captured on that day?

A. The British had 73 killed, 184 wounded, and 26 made prisoners; of the Americans, 49 were killed, 34 wounded, and 5 taken prisoners.

Q. What evidence of aid to their brethren in Massachusetts, was afforded by New-Hampshire?

A. On the first report that hostilities had begun, more than 1000 men marched from the borders of the province, and joined the provincials near Boston.

Q. What act of courage and valor was performed in New-Hampshire soon after this event?

A. A party of citizens attacked a battery on Jerry's Point, at Great Island, (New-Castle) and carried off eight cannon of 24 and 32 pound shot, all of which were conveyed to Portsmouth.

Q. When was the battle of Bunker Hill?

A. On the 17 of June, 1775.

Q. What was the number of men engaged in the action, and what was the loss sustained?

A. On the part of the British, about 3000 were engaged, of whom 226 were killed, and 828 wounded; of the Americans, 139 were killed, and 314 wounded and missing.

Q. What course was pursued by John Wentworth, governor of New-Hampshire, on the commencement of the war?

A. Like the other governors appointed by the king, he took part against the Americans. Finding his authority disregarded, he retired to the fort, and soon after sailed for Boston.

Q. What was the last act of his administration?

A. The issuing of a proclamation, on his return from Boston to the Isles of Shoals, in September, 1775, adjourning the general assembly to April, 1776.

Q. What became of Gov. Wentworth?

A. He went to Nova-Scotia, and was soon after appointed governor of that province, and fixed his residence at Halifax, where, after having received various civil and literary honors, from his native country, and from England, he died on the 8 April, 1820, at the age of 84.

Q. What was governor Wentworth's character?

A. He was distinguished for the brilliancy of his talents, his classical taste in literature, and for those amiable qualities which gained the esteem of all who knew him. Dr. Dwight, in his Travels, speaks of him as "a man of sound understanding, refined taste, enlarged views, and a dignified spirit; and as retiring from the chair with a higher reputation than any other man who held the same office in the country."

Q. In what hands was the government lodged by the people on the dissolution of the British government?

A. In a provincial assembly, consisting of delegates from the several towns and parishes in New-Hampshire.

Q. What form of government was adopted to continue in force during the controversy with Great Britain?

A. One, consisting of a house of representatives, chosen by the several towns, and a council of twelve persons, selected from the several counties, and chosen by the people, annually.

Q. Who was president of the council during the existence of this constitution?

A. Meshech Weare, of Hampton-Falls, a man of tried talents and inflexible integrity.

CHAPTER XV.

Independence declared—Opposition to the Constitution adopted in New-Hampshire, to continue during the War—Battle of Bennington—Surrender of Burgoyne—Treaty with France—Surrender of Cornwallis—Loss occasioned by the War—Distinguished Officers in the service—Characters of General Stark, General Whipple, and Colonel Scammell.

Q. When and by whom were the United States declared free, and independent of Great Britain?

A. On the 4 of July, 1776, by the representatives of the thirteen colonies, in Congress assembled.

Q. Was this before the adoption of the constitution mentioned in the preceding chapter?

A. It was not. The constitution referred to was adopted on the 5 January, 1776, and was the first formed, and which went into operation, in any of the thirteen colonies.

Q. Did some of the delegates oppose its adoption on the ground that it was in effect declaring the colony independent?

A. They did; alleging in their protest against it, that it appeared to them, too much like setting up an INDEPENDENCY on the mother country, and because the colonies of New-York and Virginia, which were in like circumstances, and presumed to be much wiser, had never attempted anything of the kind, and so far as they could learn never desired it!

Q. What event, in the language of president Jefferson, was "the first link in the chain of successes which issued in the surrender of Saratoga," and the capture of Burgoyne?

A. The capture of colonel Baum, near Bennington, Vt., on the 16 August, 1777, by general John Stark, with 33 officers, and more than 700 privates taken, besides 226 left dead on the field.

Q. When was the capture of Burgoyne?

A. On the 17 day of October, when the royal army under this general, consisting of more than 9000, surrendered prisoners of war.

Q. What foreign aid did the United States receive in 1778?

A. That of France, which formed an alliance with the United States, and sent hither a minister plenipotentiary, and received one from this country, and contributed land and naval forces for our assistance.

Q. When did Lord Cornwallis surrender his army?

A. On the 19 October, 1781.

Q. What was the number of prisoners surrendered?

A. About 7000, including rank and file.

Q. How large was the allied army, to which that of Cornwallis surrendered?

A. It has been estimated at 16,000 men, of whom 7000 were French, 5500 continental troops, and 3500 militia.

Q. Was the surrender of this army considered as deciding the contest with Great Britain?

A. It was; and though several hostile movements continued to be made by the remaining British forces, for some months, yet no additional army was sent to invade the country. Articles of peace were signed at Paris by the American and British commissioners on the 30 November, 1782.

Q. What was the number of continental troops from New-Hampshire, engaged in the service of the United States?

A. Eleven thousand, seven hundred and fifty-two.

Q. What was the number estimated to have been killed and lost from New-Hampshire?

A. About 1400, mostly men in the prime and vigor of life.

Q. Who were some of the most distinguished officers from this State engaged in the revolution?

A. John Sullivan, John Stark, William Whipple, Enoch Poor, Joseph Cilley, James Read, Nathaniel Folsom, Alexander Scammell, Andrew McClary, and Andrew Colburn.

Q. What is known of general Stark?

A. He was the son of Archibald Stark, who came from Ireland in 1720, and settled at Londonderry, where the general was born 28 August, 1728. In 1752, he was captured by the Indians in Rumney, and carried to Canada, where he was redeemed the next year, by paying the Indians $103. In the French war, he commanded a company of Rangers, and rendered much service to the country. In the revolutionary war, he displayed great bravery, and attained the rank of a general officer in the continental army. At the close of the revolution, he retired to his farm at Manchester, and spent the rest of his days in the quiet duties of domestic life. He died 8 May, 1822, aged almost 94 years, being the last surviving general of the revolution.

Q. What is known of general Whipple?

A. He was a native of Kittery, in Maine, where he was born in 1730. Before he was 21 years of age, he obtained the command of a vessel, and performed a number of voyages to the West Indies, and Europe. In 1759, he abandoned the sea, and went into business at Portsmouth; was a delegate from that town to the convention at Exeter, in 1775; was one of the first council of New-Hampshire after the war commenced, was a delegate to the general congress, and was one of the signers of the declaration of independence. In 1777, he changed his political for a military character. He and John Stark were appointed to the command of the two brigades of militia raised in New-Hampshire, "to stop the progress of the enemy on our western frontiers." His services to the American cause were important. After the war closed, he was appointed judge of the superior court of New-Hampshire. He died 28 November, 1785, aged 54.

Q. What account can you give of General Poor?

A. He was the son of Thomas Poor, of Andover, and was born in 1737. He received the command of one of the first three regiments raised in New-Hampshire after the war begun. He was a valuable officer, and a worthy man. He died in New-Jersey, 8 September, 1780, of a bilious fever, after thirteen days' illness.

Q. What is an outline of the life of colonel Scammell?

A. The place of his birth was Milford, in Massachusetts, from whence, after having graduated at Harvard college, in 1769, and instructed school in several places in his native State several years, he came to New-Hampshire, and entered upon the business of exploring and surveying lands about the year 1772. He assisted captain Holland in making surveys for his map of New Hampshire. He also commenced the study of law with John Sullivan. When the war commenced, he was appointed brigade major, and in 1776, received an appointment of colonel, and subsequently was appointed adjutant general of the American army, in which office he was deservedly popular. On the 30 September, 1781, while reconnoitering the situation of the enemy, he was taken prisoner by the British, and died of the wounds which he inhumanly received by them, on the 6 October, and was buried at Williamsburg, Virginia.

CHAPTER XVI.

Exeter Academy—New Constitution of New-Hampshire—Insurrection—Federal Government—Washington's Administration—President Weare.

Q. When and by whom was Phillip's Exeter Academy founded?

A. In 1781, by the Honorable John Phillips, of Exeter, a member of the council under the royal government, who had enjoyed a public education at Harvard college.

Q. What has been the character of this Institution?

A. It has ranked as one of the oldest, best endowed, and most respectable institutions of the kind in the United States.

Q. Who has presided over this institution for the last thirty-six years?

A. Benjamin Abbot, LL. D., who has sustained a high reputation for his powers of instruction and government.

Q. When and by whom was the Constitution of New-Hampshire formed?

A. In June, 1783, by a convention of delegates of the people, who assembled at Concord.

Q. When did it go into operation?

A. On the first Wednesday of June, 1784.

Q. When did a revision of it take place?

A. In September, 1792, from which time it has remained unaltered.

Q. What event of importance occurred in New-Hampshire in 1786?

A. The rising of about 200 men, armed in different modes, who surrounded the general assembly of the State, then sitting at Exeter, and holding the whole body prisoners several hours.

Q. What was the object of the insurgents?

A. Their design was to force the legislature into a paper money system, agreeably to a petition which had been previously preferred by a convention of delegates from about thirty towns in the State.

Q. How were the insurgents dispersed?

A. By the citizens of Exeter, who, about the dusk of the evening, beat a drum at a distance, and others cried "Huzza for government! Bring up the artillery!" which caused an instant panic among the mob, and they scattered in every direction.

Q. What was done with those taken prisoners?

A. Eight were arraigned at the superior court on an indictment for treason; but no one suffered capital punishment.

Q. Who were presidents of New-Hampshire from 1784 to 1789.

A. Meshech Weare, John Langdon and John Sullivan.

Q. What was the character of president Weare?

A. He was a firm patriot, and a faithful public servant. Though not endowed with original inventive powers, he possessed a clear judgment, and a capacity for discharging the various duties which his station involved. He was employed in public business about forty-five years, and was invested at the same time with the highest offices, legislative, judicial, and executive. Dr. Belknap says he did not enrich himself by his public employment, but was one of those good men "who dare to love their country and be poor." He died at Hampton-Falls, 15 January, 1786, in the 73d year of his age.

Q. When did the Federal Government of the United States go into full operation?

A. On the 30 of April, 1789, when George Washington and John Adams were inaugurated president and vice-president of the United States.

Q. How long was president Washington in office?

A. Eight years, from 1789 to 1797.

Q. How long did he live after retiring from office?

A. Nearly three years. He died at Mount-Vernon, 14 December, 1799, in the 68th year of his age.

Q. What was his character?

A. He was a most consummate general, statesman and patriot; one of the founders of the American republic, and was one of the few of the human race, who have been great, without being criminal.

Q. Who were chief magistrates of New-Hampshire while Washington was president?

A. John Sullivan in 1789, Josiah Bartlett from 1790 to 1794, and John Taylor Gilman from 1794 to 1797.

CHAPTER XVII.

Character of John Sullivan and Josiah Bartlett—Administration of John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and James Monroe—Embargo—War with Great Britain.

Q. What is known of John Sullivan?

A. He was bred a lawyer, but left his profession, and engaged early in the service of his country; was a brave general; enjoyed the confidence of Washington, and rendered great aid in the defence of our rights. After the war, he was three years president of New-Hampshire, and was afterwards judge of the United States district court. He died at Durham, 23 January, 1795, aged 54.

Q. What account can you give of Josiah Bartlett?

A. He was a native of Amesbury, Massachusetts, received a private education, and studied the profession of medicine, in which he became eminent. He was elected a member of the Old Congress, and was one of those who signed the declaration of Independence in 1776. He was chosen president in the years 1790, 1791 and 1792, and in 1793 was elected governor; the first with this title in New-Hampshire, under the new constitution. He died at Kingston, 19 May, 1795, in his 65th year.

Q. Who was the second President of the United States?

A. John Adams, who remained in office four years.

Q. What remarkable coincidence attended his death?

A. He died on the 4 July, 1826, on the same day with President Jefferson, and while thousands, and tens of thousands of their fellow citizens were in the act of celebrating that event, towards which they had so largely contributed.

Q. Who succeeded president Adams?

A. Thomas Jefferson, in 1801, who remained in office eight years.

Q. What measure affecting the commercial interests of New-England, passed the government under his administration?

A. A general embargo, which was laid on the 22 December, 1807.

Q. How long did it continue?

A. Until the first of March, 1809.

Q. For what was the year 1806 remarkable?

A. For a solar eclipse, on the 16 of June, by which the sun, near mid-day, was totally obscured for several minutes.

Q. What were some of the most noticeable appearances at the time?

A. The scene was at once beautiful and sublime. "The sky was unusually serene; not a leaf was in motion. Just before the greatest darkness, all nature seemed verging to a state of repose. The animals hastened to their nocturnal retreats. The birds sang their evening lays." The stars were sometime visible. The return of light was instantaneous, but the full blaze of the sun was gradual.

Q. Who succeeded Thomas Jefferson as president?

A. James Madison, in March, 1809.

Q. When and how was commercial intercourse with Great Britain interdicted?

A. On the 22 November, 1810, by the president's proclamation.

Q. For what was president Madison's administration distinguished?

A. For a war with Great Britain, which was declared the 18 June, 1812, and lasted two years and eight months.

Q. What were some of the principal events during the war?

A. The surrender to the British of 2000 men by general Hull; the battle of Fort George; Commodore Perry's victory on Lake Erie; battle of Williamsburg in Upper Canada; the burning of Newark and Buffalo; the battle of Chippewa; the battle of Bridgewater; capture of the city of Washington, and the burning of the capitol; capture of a british squadron by captain Macdonough, and the battle of New-Orleans.

Q. How was Portsmouth defended when menaced by the British?

A. The militia, to the number of about 3000, were drafted by order of government, and were stationed at Portsmouth, for the protection of the town and harbor.

Q. Who assumed the command of this force?

A. Governor Gilman, who, as commander in chief, took up his quarters at Portsmouth in person, and issued his orders.

Q. For what was the year 1814 remarkable?

A. For the prevalence of the spotted fever, which spread extensively throughout various parts of the State, and caused a great mortality.

Q. Who were the governors of New-Hampshire while Adams, Jefferson, and Madison were presidents?

A. John Taylor Gilman from 1797 to 1805, and in 1813, 1814, and 1815; John Langdon from 1805 to 1809, and in 1810 and 1811; Jeremiah Smith in 1809, and William Plumer in 1812.

Q. How long was governor Gilman in office as governor?

A. Fourteen years, eleven in succession, having been first elected in 1794.

Q. What was his character?

A. He possessed great integrity, and was prompt and decided in his measures. He enjoyed for a long time the highest office in the gift of the people of this State, which, by "a clear comprehension and faithful performance of its duties, and an assiduous devotion to the general welfare, he was enabled to sustain with a dignity and honor, of which there are fewer brighter or more conspicuous examples." He died at Exeter, 31 August, 1828, aged 75.

Q. How long was governor Langdon in office?

A. Six years.

Q. What is said of his life and character?

A. That he was a firm patriot of the revolution; was often employed in civil life, and served in 1775 as delegate in the old congress; twelve years as senator under the Federal Constitution, and often as representative in the State legislature. He was easy, polite and pleasing in his manners, social in his habits, and calculated to gain the public esteem, which he generally retained. He spent the evening of his days in a calm retreat from the bustle of politics and contending parties, and died at Portsmouth, 18 September, 1819; aged 79.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Administration of James Monroe, and John Quincy Adams—Visit of La Fayette to America—Governors of New-Hampshire during the Administration of Monroe and Adams—Important events.

Q. Who succeeded James Madison as President of the United States?

A. James Monroe in 1817, who remained in office eight years.

Q. What were some of the principal events during his administration?

A. The admission of the States of Illinois and Missouri into the Union, and the cession of the Floridas by Spain to the United States.

Q. By whom was James Monroe succeeded?

A. John Quincy Adams, son of the former president, who remained in office four years, and in 1829, was succeeded by Andrew Jackson.

Q. What distinguished individual from France visited the United States in 1824 and 1825?

A. The marquis de la Fayette, who arrived at New-York, in the ship Cadmus, on the 15 August, 1824.

Q. When did he visit Concord, New-Hampshire?

A. On the 22 June, 1825, while the General Court was in session.

Q. How was he received?

A. With great respect, kindness and attention. He was received at Pembroke by a number of gentlemen appointed by the legislature, and by the citizens of Concord, and escorted to the line of Concord, where he was welcomed to the town by the chairman of the committee of arrangements on the part of the citizens; was then escorted by a long train of people from all parts of the State, to the State house, where he was presented by the chief marshal to Gov. Morrill, who addressed him, and gave him a hearty welcome, and to the several members composing the State authorities. At three o'clock, he was conducted by the governor to the table spread for the occasion in the State house yard, where from 700 to 800 persons sat down to dinner, of whom 211 were officers and soldiers of the Revolution, to whom he was individually introduced. He was then escorted from the table to his lodgings at Col. William A. Kent's. After tea, he waited upon the governor, at the residence of Judge Morrill, and at half past seven o'clock, held a levee in the area of the State house for the introduction of ladies and gentlemen. About half past eight, he attended an Oratorio of the New-Hampshire Musical Society, where, having spent an hour, he returned to his lodgings. He left town at 7 o'clock on the next morning for Dover. On no occasion, from the first settlement of the country, have so many people been convened in New-Hampshire, as was brought together to see the illustrious visitor.

Q. Who were governors of New-Hampshire while Monroe and Adams were presidents?

A. William Plumer in 1816, 1817, 1818; Samuel Bell from 1819 to 1823; Levi Woodbury in 1823; David L. Morrill from 1824 to 1827; Benjamin Pierce in 1827, and John Bell in 1828.

Q. What were some of the most important events in the State under these administrations?

A. The building of a State house, and fixing the seat of government at Concord; the passing the toleration law, so called, in 1819; the establishment of a literary fund, by a tax on banks in 1821; the incorporation of the county of Merrimack in 1823; the foundation and incorporation of the Historical Society in 1823; and the incorporation of the county of Sullivan in 1827.

Q. What has been the population of New-Hampshire, at various periods, for the last 60 years?

A. In 1767, the number of people was 52,700; in 1775, 82,000; in 1790, 141,885; in 1800, 183,858; in 1810, 214,460, and in 1820, 244,161.

APPENDIX.

FORMS OF GOVERNMENT IN NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

The first settlers of New-Hampshire were governed by such orders and instructions as were given to the Agents, by the Proprietors. For about six years, the people were under the direction of the company of Laconia, to whom were granted in 1622, the lands between the rivers of Merrimack and Kennebeck. In 1629, captain John Mason obtained his patent, and under him considerable addition was made to the number of inhabitants. But after a few years, those whom he sent over undertook to govern themselves by such temporary regulations, as they voluntarily made without any special formality. Francis Williams was some time governor of the principal plantation.

Exeter was settled in 1638, and the first inhabitants soon combined into a separate body politic, and chose rulers and assistants, who were sworn to the discharge of their office, and the people were as solemnly sworn to obey them. The inhabitants of Dover and Portsmouth soon followed their example, but these combinations being only voluntary agreements, and liable to be broken or subdivided upon the first popular discontent, the more considerate persons thought it best to put themselves under the care of Massachusetts. The patentees of New-Hampshire having resigned the jurisdiction of the whole country to Massachusetts, on condition that the inhabitants should enjoy the same liberties with her own people, New-Hampshire became united to Massachusetts, and so remained for the term of 38 years. Each town was allowed to send two deputies or representatives to the General Court, which sat at Boston. Dover and Portsmouth, although belonging to the county of Norfolk, (a county embracing several towns in Essex county with those in New-Hampshire,) had always a distinct jurisdiction, there being a court, called the court of Associates, held in one or the other, sometimes once, and sometimes twice in a year. This court consisted of one or more of the magistrates or assistants, and one or more commissioners chosen by the General Court out of the principal gentlemen of each town.

In 1680, the Provincial government went into operation, and New-Hampshire was separated from Massachusetts. By this, the people were governed by a President and Council, who were appointed by the king, and an assembly, consisting of members chosen by the several towns. The President and Council constituted a court of record for the administration of justice according to the court of England, so far as circumstances would admit; reserving a right of appeal to the king in council, for actions of fifty pounds value. They were empowered to appoint military officers, and take all needful measures for defence against enemies. The Assembly were to pass such laws as should establish their allegiance, good order and defence, and raise taxes in such manner as they should see fit. All laws were to be approved by the President and Council, and then to remain in force until the king's pleasure should be known, for which purpose they were required to be sent to England by the first ships.

This form of government, with some modifications, continued until the Revolution commenced, excepting a short period from 1689 to 1692, when the people again came under Massachusetts. The British government was dissolved on the breaking out of hostilities in 1775. The people assumed a government for themselves, by their delegates, who met in convention, and in 1776, formed a temporary Constitution to continue during the controversy with Great Britain. This Constitution provided for a House of Representatives chosen by the several towns, and a Council of twelve persons from the several counties, and chosen by the people.

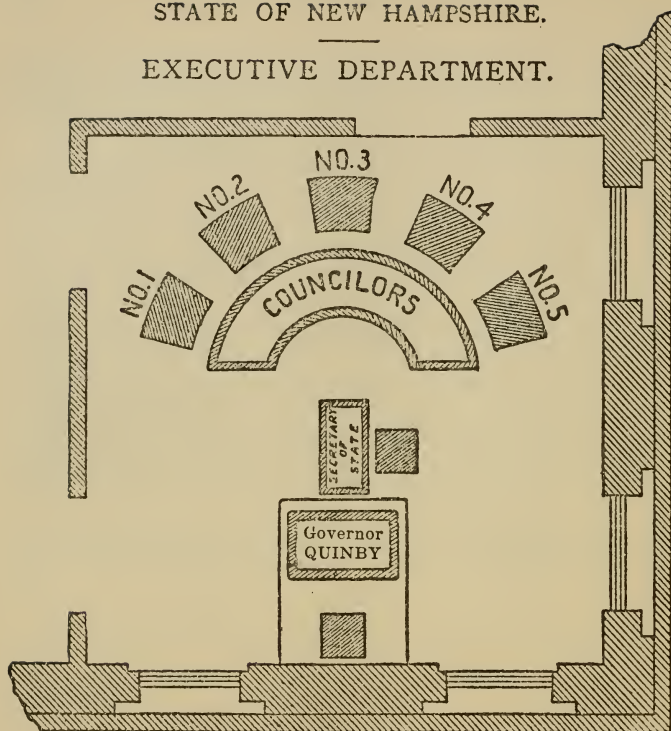

In the year 1783, after several attempts to form a new Constitution, a convention of delegates assembled at Concord, and agreed upon a form of government, which was adopted by the people, and went into operation in June, 1784. It underwent a revision in September, 1792, by which some important changes were made, since then it has remained unaltered. It is founded on the broad principles of rational liberty, and guarantees at once the safety of the State, and the personal rights of the citizens. No person can be restrained in his freedom, until by crime, he cuts off the obligation of society to protect him; unless it be a matter of his own choice or sufferance.

The supreme executive power of the State is vested in the Governor and Council. The Governor is annually elected by the people; or, if there be no choice by the people, the election is made by the Legislature from the two highest candidates. The Council consists of five persons, chosen by the people. The Senate consists of twelve members, who are chosen by the people in districts. The Representatives are chosen in the several towns, by the people; each town containing one hundred and fifty ratable polls, being entitled to one representative, and for every three hundred polls, is entitled to another. The annual election for State and county officers, is holden on the second Tuesday in March. The meeting of the General Court is annually on the first Wednesday in June.

RULES OF THE SENATE.

1. Journal, when read.
2. Conversation of senators, when prohibited.
3. Conduct of members when speaking.
4. Members allowed to speak twice.
5. President shall recognize whom.
6. Member called to order; question, how decided.
7. Member absenting himself.
8. Motion seconded; reduced to writing when.
9. Precedence of motions; motion not allowed at same stage of bill.
10. Question, when divided.
11. Dispute about reading paper, how decided.
12. Roll-call; every one must vote.
13. Secret sessions of senate.
14. Vote decided; how reconsidered.
15. Petitions, etc., how introduced.
16. Notice of bills.
17. Progress of bills.
18. What resolutions treated as bills.
19. Bills read second time by their titles.
20. Titles of bills.
21. Senate, acting as committee of whole.
22. Bills on second reading, last question. How amended on third reading.
23. Amendments entered on journal.
24. President to sign bills and warrants.
25. Standing committees.
26. Who appoints committees.
27. Joint committees. Number senate entitled to.
28. Message to house sent by clerk.
29. Governor's message, when received.
30. Members to vote, division of senate, when.
31. Visitors to senate allowed when.
32. Hours of meeting.
33. No debate on motions to adjourn.
34. How to suspend or rescind standing rules of senate.
35. All bills and joint resolutions printed except private acts, how forwarded. Headings of bills and joint resolutions.

1. The president having taken the chair, and a quorum being present, the journal of the preceding day shall be read, and any erroneous entry shall be corrected.

2. No member shall hold conversation with another during the reading of the journal, or while a member is speaking in debate.

3. Every member, rising to speak, shall address the president, and when he has finished shall sit down.

4. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, on the same day, without leave of the senate.

5. More than one member rising to speak at the same time, the president shall decide who shall speak first.

6. If any member transgress the rules of the senate, the president shall, or any member may, call him to order;—in which case the member so called to order shall sit down, and the senate, if appealed to, shall decide in the case; but if there be no appeal, the decision of the president shall be conclusive.

7. No member shall absent himself without permission from the senate.

8. A motion shall be seconded before it is debated, and if required by the president or any member, it shall be reduced to writing.

9. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to postpone indefinitely, to lay on the table, to postpone to a certain day, to commit, or to amend, which several motions shall take precedence in the order in which they are arranged. And no motion to postpone indefinitely, to postpone to a certain day, or to commit, being decided, shall be in order at the same stage of the bill or proposition until after an adjournment.

10. If the question under debate will admit of division, any member may have it divided; and in filling blanks, the longest time and the largest sum shall be put first.

11. When the reading of a paper is called for, and the same is objected to, it shall be decided by a vote of the senate, and without debate.

12. When the yeas and nays are required, each member shall declare his assent or dissent to the question, unless for special reasons he be excused by the senate.

13. When a motion is made to shut the doors of the senate, on the discussion of any business which in the opinion of any member may require secrecy, the president shall require the gallery to be closed; and the doors shall remain closed until the subject is disposed of.

14. After a motion has been decided, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the majority, or if the senate be equally divided, any member voting on the side prevailing, to move for a reconsideration thereof, unless the bill, resolution, report, amendment, or motion on which the vote was taken, has gone from the possession of the senate; but no motion to reconsider shall be in order unless made the same day on which the vote was taken, or the next day after that on which the vote was taken, on which the senate shall be in session.

15. Before any petition or memorial address to the senate shall be received and read, a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the member introducing the same.

16. Any member, on giving notice of asking leave to bring in a bill, shall state the nature of the bill he proposes to introduce, and at least one day's notice shall be given before a motion for leave shall be in order.

17. Every bill shall be read three times before its passage, and the president shall give notice at each time whether it be the first, second or third reading; and no bill after it has been read a second time, shall have a third reading before an adjournment.

18. All resolutions which may require the signature of the governor shall be treated in the same manner as bills.

19. When a bill shall have been read a first time and ordered to a second reading, it shall be immediately read a second time by its title, and by the president referred to the appropriate standing committee, unless otherwise ordered by the senate.

20. All bills introduced in the senate, to repeal or modify an existing statute, shall refer to the act proposed to be repealed or modified by the title and session at which it was passed; and no bill shall refer to any statute by the number of the chapter of the pamphlet laws.

21. The senate may resolve itself into a committee of the whole at any time on motion made for that purpose; and in forming a committee of the whole, the president shall leave the chair, and appoint a chairman to preside in committee. The president may at any time name any member to perform the duties of the chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond one legislative day.

22. The last question, upon the second reading of a bill or resolution, shall always be, Shall it be read a third time?—and no amendment shall be received or discussed on the third reading of any bill or resolution unless by consent of sixteen members present, but it shall at all times be in order, before the final passage of a bill or resolution, to move its commitment; and should such commitment take place, and an amendment be reported, the bill or resolution shall again be read a second time, and considered as in committee of the whole.

23. The titles of bills, and such parts thereof as may be affected by proposed amendments, shall be entered on the journals.

24. All bills, resolutions, and addresses, after passing the senate, shall be signed by the president; and all warrants and other processes issued by order of the senate shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the clerk.

25. The following standing committees, to consist of five members each, shall be appointed at the commencement of any session, with leave to report by bill or otherwise: A committee on the judiciary; a committee on incorporations; a committee on labor; a committee on military affairs; a committee on roads, bridges, and canals; a committee on claims; a committee on railroads; a committee on banks; a committee on agriculture; a committee on manufactures; a committee on elections; a committee on education; a committee on finance; a committee on state prison and industrial school; a committee on state hospital; a committee on revision of the laws; a committee on towns and parishes; a committee on soldiers' home; a committee on fisheries and game; a committee on feeble-minded school; a committee on public health; a committee on forestry, and a committee on public improvements. There shall also be a committee on rules, consisting of three members, one of whom shall be the president.

26. All committees shall be appointed by the president, unless otherwise directed by the senate.

27. When the senate shall concur with the house of representatives in the appointment of a joint committee, consisting of not more than five members of the house, two members shall be added on the part of the senate; but when more than five, three members of the senate shall be added.

28. Messages shall be sent to the house of representatives by the clerk of the senate.

29. Messages from the governor or house of representatives may be received at all times, except when the senate is engaged in putting the question, in calling the yeas and nays, in counting the ballots, or in reading the journal.

30. All questions shall be put by the president, and each member of the senate shall signify his assent or dissent by answering yea or nay. If the president doubts, or a division is called for, the senate shall divide. Those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats and stand till they be counted, and afterwards those in the negative shall rise and stand till they be counted. The president shall then rise and state the decision of the senate.

31. No person except the members of the executive, or members of the house of representatives and its officers, shall be admitted within the bar of the senate, except by invitation of the president, or some member with his consent.

32. The senate shall adjourn to meet at eleven o'clock in the morning and three o'clock in the afternoon of each day unless the senate shall otherwise order.

33. Motions to adjourn shall be decided without debate.

34. No standing rule of the senate shall be suspended unless two thirds of the members present vote in favor thereof, and no rule shall be rescinded unless one day's notice of the motion has been given and two thirds of those present vote therefor.

35. Every bill and joint resolution, except private acts, originating in the senate, which has been favorably reported upon by the committee having it in charge, shall be declared by the president laid upon the table, and the clerk directed to procure a sufficient number of printed copies thereof for the use of the senate; and that when said bills and joint resolutions are printed and distributed, the clerk shall cause a copy of the same to be laid on the president's table, and they shall be taken up in their order without motion, and disposed of in the same manner as they would have been had they not been declared laid on the table. And every bill or joint resolution so introduced shall be headed senate bill, or joint resolution, as the case may be.

Every bill and joint resolution appropriating money, which has been favorably reported upon by any other committee, shall be recommitted to the committee on finance for revision.

JOINT RULES

OF THE

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

- | | |
|--|---|
| <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Convention of senate and house.2. Messages, by whom sent.3. Messages, when received.4. Messages, by whom announced.5. Bills, between the houses.6. Engrossed bills.7. Joint committees. | <ol style="list-style-type: none">8. Bills, titles and contents of.9. Bills rejected by one house.10. Each house to transmit papers.11. Bills to be transmitted before what time.12. Bill, when defeated.13. Time for introducing bills. |
|--|---|

1. When a convention of the two houses is to be formed, whether by a requirement of the constitution, or by a vote or resolve of the two houses, a message shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate, giving notice when the House will meet the Senate in convention. As soon thereafter as the convenience of the Senate will permit, they will attend in the House. The speaker of the House shall be chairman of the convention, and shall state the reasons for forming the convention. When the House and Senate are thus formed in convention, the rules adopted as the rules of the House shall be considered the rules of the convention, so far as they may be deemed applicable, and the convention shall accordingly be governed thereby.

2. Messages shall be sent by such person or persons as each House may deem to be proper.

3. Messages from either House shall be received from the other at all times, except when engaged in putting a question, in calling the yeas and nays, in counting the ballots, or in reading the Journal.

4. When a message shall be sent from either house to the other, it shall be announced at the door of the House to which it may be sent, by the doorkeeper.

5. While bills are on their passage between the two houses, they shall be under the signature of the clerk of each House respectively.

6. There shall be a committee for the purpose of engrossing bills, consisting of two members of each House. All bills that pass both houses shall be delivered to said committee, be by them engrossed, carefully examined, and reported to the respective houses; and shall be signed first by the speaker of the House of Representatives, and then by the president of the Senate.

7. There shall be a committee, to consist of three members of the House and one of the Senate, on each of the following subjects, to wit: On all matters relative to the state library, and on all matters relative to the state house and state house yard.

8. Every bill or joint resolution, repealing or modifying any act or statute, shall refer to the same by the chapter, title, and section of the general laws, if contained therein, otherwise by its title and the session of the legislature when the same was passed, and shall also be expressed in words clearly, so that it shall not be necessary to refer to any other act or statute to ascertain the meaning thereof; and it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of each branch of the legislature to require all such bills and resolutions to be made in conformity therewith, before putting any vote thereon, except to commit or amend.

9. When a bill or resolve which shall have passed in one House is rejected in the other, notice thereof shall be given to the House in which the same shall have passed.

10. Each House shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolve may be founded.

11. Each House shall transmit to the other all bills which have passed their several stages in the House in which they originated, at least twenty-four hours before the time fixed for adjournment.

12. After each House shall have adhered to its disagreement, a bill or resolve shall be considered lost.

13. No bill, joint resolution, claim outstanding on the first day of the session, or petition relating to new business shall be received in either branch of the legislature after the third week of the session, unless reported from a committee; provided, that this rule may be suspended in either House whenever two thirds of the whole number of members shall, on division taken, vote in favor thereof, and not otherwise.

52. Rules of.

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE DAY.

53. Petitions, reports of committees, etc.
54. Unfinished business shall have preference.

OF THE DUTY OF THE SPEAKER.

1. The Speaker shall take the chair at precisely the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and shall immediately call the members to order.

2. He shall preserve decorum and order, may speak on points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House by any two members.

3. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "As many as are of opinion that (as the case may be) say Aye"; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "Those of a contrary opinion say No." If the Speaker doubts, or a division is called for, the House shall divide. Those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats and stand till they be counted, and afterwards those in the negative shall rise and stand till they be counted. The Speaker shall then rise and state the decision of the house.

4. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

5. All committees shall be appointed by the Speaker unless otherwise directed by the House.

6. The Speaker shall designate to which of the standing committees all memorials, petitions, accounts, or other matters shall be referred, unless otherwise ordered by the House.

7. The Speaker shall not be called upon to vote unless the House be equally divided, or unless his vote, if given to the minority, will make the division equal; and in case of such equal division the question shall be lost.

8. All acts, addresses, and joint resolutions shall be assigned by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants, or subpoenas, issued by order of the House, shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the clerk.

9. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries, the speaker or chairman of the committee of the whole house shall have the power to order the same to be cleared.

10. No person but the members and officers of the House, members of the council, and members of the Senate, the secretary of the state, treasurer, and clerks of the Senate, shall be admitted within the door of the Representatives' chamber unless by invitation of the Speaker, or some member of the House, with the consent of the Speaker, except in public hearings, parties, their counsel and witnesses, under the direction of the Speaker.

11. The Speaker shall have power to substitute any member to perform the duties of the chair, such substitution not to extend beyond one legislative day.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

12. When any member is about to speak in debate, make a motion, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the Speaker.

13. If any member transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, and the question of order shall then be distinctly stated from the chair; and in all cases where a member shall be called to order for uttering disrespectful words, upon the request of any member the words objected to shall be reduced to writing by the member so calling to order; after which the member so called to order may explain, and the question shall be open to debate, as in other cases, and decided by the Speaker, whose decision shall be submitted to unless an appeal be made to the House, by a member, in which case the only question shall be, "Is the Speaker's decision correct?" which shall be decided without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he may proceed; if otherwise, and the case may require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.

14. In all cases the member first rising shall speak first. When two members rise at the same time, the Speaker shall name the person to speak.

15. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the House; nor more than once until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

16. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, no one shall walk out of or across the House; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor, while a member is speaking shall pass between him and the chair; nor shall any member leave his seat while the yeas and nays are calling.

17. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is directly interested; nor in any case where he was not present when the question was put; nor sit upon any committee when he is directly interested in the question under consideration. In case of such interest of a member of a committee, the fact shall be reported to the House, and another person substituted on that question in his place.

18. Every member who shall be in the House when a question is put shall give his vote, unless the House, for special reason, shall excuse him.

19. No motion shall be debated until the same shall be seconded and stated from the chair; and when a motion shall be made and seconded, it shall be reduced to writing, if desired by the Speaker or any member, and delivered at the table, and read by the Speaker, before the same shall be debated.

20. No petition shall be received by the House unless it be presented by a member thereof, nor until the substance of said petition be concisely minuted, and the name of the member, and the town he represents, recorded upon the back thereof; and it shall be the duty of the Speaker to state, in the first place, the substance of the petition as minuted on the back thereof.

21. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, it shall be in possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before an amendment.

22. When any question is under debate, no motion shall be received, but, first, to adjourn; second, to lay on the table; third, for the previous question; fourth, to postpone indefinitely; fifth, to postpone to a certain day; sixth, to commit; seventh, to amend; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged. Motions to adjourn, to lay on the table, for the previous question, and to take from the table, shall be decided without debate.

23. The Speaker shall put the previous question in the following form: "Shall the main question now be put?" and all debate upon the main question shall be suspended until the previous question has been decided. After the adoption of the previous question, the sense of the House shall forthwith be taken upon pending amendments, in their regular order, and then upon the main question. The motion for the previous question shall not be put unless demanded by three members.

24. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion for the previous question and related to the subjects affected by the order of the previous question shall be decided without debate.

25. If the previous question is decided in the negative, it shall not be again in order until after adjournment, but the main question shall be left before the House and disposed of as though the previous question had not been put.

26. When a question is postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted upon during the session except by unanimous consent.

27. Any member may call for a division of the question when the sense will admit of it; and upon a motion to amend, a refusal to strike out words shall neither preclude amendment to such words nor a motion to strike out and insert.

28. A motion for commitment, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment to the main question, and all motions and reports may be committed at the pleasure of the House.

29. No new motion shall be admitted, under color of amendment, as a substitute for the motion under debate.

30. No vote shall be reconsidered, unless the motion for reconsideration be made by a member who voted with the majority, nor unless the notice of such motion be given on the same day on which the vote passed, or on the next day on which the House shall be in session, between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock.

31. When the reading of a paper is called for and objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the House.

32. Any member may excuse himself from serving on any committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of two other committees which have not reported.

33. Each member shall seasonably and punctually attend to his duty in the House, and no one shall absent himself from the service of the House unless he have leave, or be sick and unable to attend.

34. The Speaker shall appoint a teller for each division of the House, whose duty it shall be to report to the chair the state of the vote, whenever a division of the House is called for.

OF COMMITTEES AND THEIR DUTIES.

35. The following standing committees shall be appointed early in the January session:

A committee on revising and compiling the laws of the state; a committee on national affairs; a committee on elections; a committee on the judiciary; a committee on banks; a committee on the state prison; a committee on insurance; a committee on the state agricultural college; a committee on agriculture;

a committee on manufactures; a committee on appropriations; a committee on retrenchment and reform; a committee on military affairs; a committee on education; a committee on the state normal school; a committee on incorporations; a committee on towns; a committee on county affairs; a committee on labor; a committee on state hospital; a committee on railroads; a committee on roads, bridges, and canals; a committee on unfinished business; a committee on mileage; a committee on fisheries and game; a committee on the industrial school; a committee on soldiers' home; a committee on claims; a committee on forestry; a committee on public health; a committee on public improvements; a committee on school for the feeble-minded; a committee on ways and means; a committee on liquor laws, to consist of fifteen members each; a committee on journal of the house, to consist of three members, one of whom shall be the Speaker; a committee on rules, to consist of five members, one of whom shall be the Speaker.

It shall be the duty of the committee on revising and compiling the laws to consider all matters relating to those subjects, and recommend such changes, modifications, and additions as may be desirable; also to consider all bills, resolutions, and reports of committees relating to those subjects which may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on national affairs to consider all matters of national concern, all matters referred to the state by the general government, and all matters pertaining to our federal relations, that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on elections to examine and report upon the certificates or other credentials of the election of the members returned to serve in this House, and to take into consideration all petitions and other matters in relation to elections or returns as shall be presented, or come into question, and shall be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the judiciary to take into consideration all matters in relation to the judiciary system of the state; and all matters where a constitutional question is involved. All applications for acts of incorporation which under the rules would be referred to the committee on incorporations or manufactures, shall first be referred to the committee on the judiciary to inquire whether the object of the applicants cannot be obtained by voluntary incorporation under the general laws of the state, and shall report accordingly.

It shall be the duty of the committee on banks to consider all applications for the incorporation of banks, and all subjects relating to such institutions that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the state prison to take into consideration all matters in relation to the state prison, to examine all reports and accounts that may be submitted by the warden, or that may be otherwise referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on insurance to consider all applications for the incorporation of insurance companies, and all subjects relating to insurance companies, domestic and foreign, and whether life, fire, marine, accidental, or of any other character, that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the state agricultural college to examine into the rules and government of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, and all matters connected therewith, and all such other matters as may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on agriculture to take into consideration all matters concerning the agricultural interests, and the incorporation of agricultural societies, that shall be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on manufactures to consider all matters concerning the manufacturing interests of the state, and all applications for incorporation for manufacturing purposes, which shall be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on appropriations to examine and take into consideration the state of the treasury, to report what sum it may be necessary to raise as a state tax, and on every subject touching the financial interests of the state that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on retrenchment and reform to take into consideration the public expenditures and all questions relating thereto; and also to consider all questions relating to the subject of administrative reforms in the various departments of the state government that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on military affairs to consider all applications for altering and amending laws regulating the militia of this state, and for the removal of military officers, that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on education to consider all subjects relative to the regulation of school districts and schools, and all matters concerning education that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the state normal school to examine in relation to the government of the state normal school, and all matters connected therewith, and all such other matters as may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on incorporations to consider all applications for acts of incorporation, and all other matters which may come in question relative to bodies corporate, that may be referred to it, excepting those relating to towns, parishes, turnpikes, railroads, canals, banks, agricultural societies, and factories.

It shall be the duty of the committee on towns to consider all applications for the alteration of town lines by the annexation of one portion of a town to another, and all applications for incorporation of towns by division of towns, or otherwise, that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on county affairs to consider all applications for the alteration of county lines or the creation of new counties, the salaries of county officers, the settlement of paupers, and all other matters relating to county affairs that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on labor to consider all petitions relating to labor and wages, and all other matters relating thereto that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on state hospital to examine all accounts of the state hospital, particularly of those relating to the expenditure of moneys appropriated by the state; to examine into the rules and government of the institution, and all matters of general interest connected therewith, and all such matters as shall be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on railroads to consider all petitions for the incorporation of railroads, for alterations, and all matters relative thereto that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on roads, bridges and canals to consider all applications for the incorporation of turnpikes, bridges or canals, and for the alteration of tolls, and all matters relative thereto that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on unfinished business to examine and report, from the journals of the last session, all such matters as were then pending and undetermined.

It shall be the duty of the committee on mileage to ascertain the distance traveled by each member of the House, and report to the House the names of the several members and the mileage allowed to each.

It shall be the duty of the committee on fisheries and game to consider all matters concerning the location, growth, cultivation, protection, improvement, and preservation of fish and game within the state, and all matters relative thereto, which may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on the industrial school to examine the rules and government of the institution, and all matters of general interest connected therewith, and all such matters as may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on soldiers' home to consider all the matters pertaining to the soldiers' home that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on forestry to consider all matters relating to the forests of the state and public parks that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on public health to consider all matters relating to the health of the inhabitants of the state and vital statistics that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on public improvements to consider all matters pertaining to public improvements in the state that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on school for the feeble-minded to examine the rules and government of the institution, and all matters of general interest connected therewith, and all such matters as may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on claims to audit, adjust, and report on all accounts and claims that may be presented for allowance, except accounts for printing, military accounts, and accounts for engrossing bills.

It shall be the duty of the committee on journal of the house from day to day, and before the commencement of the morning session, to examine the journal of the preceding day, and report to the house at once any errors; provided, however, that the journal of the preceding day shall be read at the opening of any morning session whenever requested by any ten members.

It shall be the duty of the committee on ways and means to examine and take into consideration the state of the treasury, to consider and report on all bills and resolutions relating to raising money by a state tax, the apportionment of the same, and all other methods proposed for raising a revenue for the state; and to consider and report upon every other subject touching the financial interests of the state that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on liquor laws to consider all matters pertaining to the liquor laws of the state that may be referred to it.

It shall be the duty of the committee on rules to consider all matters pertaining to the rules of procedure of the house that may be referred to it.

36. All other committees shall consist of three members, unless otherwise ordered.

37. The standing committees shall attend at their respective committee-rooms two hours before the meeting of the House in the morning, and at such other times as the House shall order; and no committee shall sit during the sitting of the House unless when the Speaker shall consider it necessary. The committees shall promptly consider and report on all matters referred to them.

38. The first named member of any committee appointed by the Speaker of the House shall be chairman; and in case of his absence, or being excused by the House, the next named member, and so on, as often as the case may happen, unless the committee, by a majority of the number, elect a chairman. And when any committee shall report otherwise than by bill, they shall, if the subject admit of it, subjoin to their report, a resolution making such disposition of the matter committed to them as to the committee shall seem expedient.

39. Whenever it shall not be convenient for any standing committee to attend properly to all the business which may be properly referred to it, the Speaker may, on a vote of the House to that effect, appoint an additional committee on the same subject, to consist of the same number of members as the original committee, whose duty it shall be to take into consideration all matters in relation to that subject which shall be referred to it by the House, and to report thereon.

OF BILLS.

40. All petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House and all bills and resolutions to be introduced in the House, shall be endorsed with the name of the person or committee presenting them, with the subject matter of the same, and shall be placed by the members presenting them in a box provided for the purpose by the clerk. The Speaker shall take them up for introduction at the morning session.

41. Every bill and resolution originally introduced into the House shall be expressed in words clearly, so that it shall not be necessary to refer to any other act or statute to ascertain the meaning thereof.

42. Every bill shall have three several readings in the House previous to its passage. The first reading shall be for information; and thereupon, if it be not rejected or otherwise disposed of by the House, the question shall be, "Shall the bill be read a second time?" and if ordered to a second reading it shall immediately be read a second time by its title, be laid upon the table to be printed under Rule 46, and be by the Speaker referred to the appropriate standing committee, unless otherwise ordered by the House. No bill after it has been read a second time shall have a third reading until after an adjournment. The time assigned for the third reading of bills and resolutions shall be three o'clock in the afternoon, unless otherwise ordered by the House.

43. No amendment shall be made but upon the second reading of a bill or joint resolution; and all bills and resolutions shall be in writing, with the name of the member and the town he represents on the back thereof. The orders of the day for the reading of bills and joint resolutions shall hold for every succeeding day until disposed of.

44. All bills, and all votes and resolutions that are necessary to be carried to the Senate for their concurrence, may be sent by the assistant clerk.

45. Every bill shall be marked on the first page "House bill," and every joint resolution shall be marked "House joint resolution," and each bill and resolution shall be regularly numbered, beginning with No. 1, and continuing consecutively, as each bill or joint resolution is introduced into the House.

46. Every bill and joint resolution introduced into the House, either by a member or by a committee, shall be declared by the Speaker laid upon the table, after it has been read a second time, and the clerk shall procure a sufficient number of copies, printed on paper of uniform size, for the use of the House, and cause the same to be distributed to the members, and when printed the bill shall be immediately delivered to the committee to which it shall have been referred. Bills and joint resolutions received from the Senate shall be printed at the same stage of their procedure unless they have been printed in the Senate and copies distributed in the House.

47. Every bill and joint resolution which has been favorably reported with material changes by the committee having it in charge shall be declared by the Speaker laid upon the table and the same shall be printed and distributed as required by Rule 46; and when said bills and joint resolutions are so printed and distributed the clerk shall, after one day, cause the same to be laid on the Speaker's table, and they shall be taken up in their order, without motion and disposed of in the same manner as they would have been had they not been declared laid upon the table.

48. All bills and joint resolutions appropriating money, reported from any committee, shall be referred to the committee on appropriations for revision.

49. No standing rule or order of the House shall be rescinded without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor; nor suspended, unless by a vote therefor of two thirds of the members present.

OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE.

50. The House may resolve itself into committee of the whole House at any time, on the motion of a member made for that purpose; and in forming a committee of the whole House the Speaker shall leave the chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the Speaker.

51. Upon bills and resolutions committed to a committee of the whole House, the bill or resolution shall first be read throughout by the clerk, and then again read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble of the bill to be last considered; the body of the bill or resolution shall not be defaced or interlined, but all amendments, noting the page and line, shall be duly entered by the clerk on a separate paper, as the same shall be agreed to by the committee and so reported to the House. After report, the bill or resolution shall again be subject to be debated and amended by clauses before a question to pass; it to a third reading be taken.

52. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed in committee of the whole House, so far as they may be applicable, except the rule limiting the time of speaking.

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE DAY.

53. The Speaker shall call for petitions from members of the House. The petitions having been presented and disposed of, reports first from the standing and then from the select committees, shall be called for and disposed of. And the above business shall be done in no other part of the day, except by permission of the House.

54. The unfinished business in which the House was engaged at the last preceding adjournment, if called for by any member, shall have the preference over all other business except the general order of the day; and no motion, or any other business except the general order of the day, shall be received without special leave of the House, until the former is disposed of.

PART FIRST.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

ARTICLE 1. All men are born equally free and independent; therefore all government of right originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.

ART. 2. All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights, among which are the enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness.

ART. 3. When men enter into a state of society they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society in order to insure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

ART. 4. Among the natural rights, some are in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the rights of conscience.

ART. 5. Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested or restrained, in his person, liberty or estate, for worshiping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience, or for his religious profession, sentiments or persuasion, provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.

ART. 6. As morality and piety, rightly grounded on evangelical principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay in the hearts of men the strongest obligations to due subjection, and as the knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society by the institution of the public worship of the DEITY and of public instruction in morality and religion, therefore, to promote these important purposes, the people of this state have a right to empower, and do hereby fully empower, the legislature to authorize, from time to time, the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies within this state to make adequate provision, at their own expense, for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion, and morality. Provided, notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate or religious societies shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their own public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. And no person of any one particular religious sect or denomination shall ever be compelled to pay towards the support of the teacher or teachers of another persuasion, sect or denomination. And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves quietly and as good subjects of the state, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law. And nothing herein shall be understood to affect any former contracts made for the support of the ministry; but all such contracts shall remain and be in the same state as if this constitution had not been made.

ART. 7. The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state, and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right pertaining thereto which is not or may not hereafter be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.

ART. 8. All power residing originally in, and being derived from the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents, and at all times accountable to them.

ART. 9. No office or place whatsoever in government shall be hereditary, the abilities and integrity requisite in all not being transmissible to posterity or relations.

ART. 10. Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family or class of men, therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to, reform the old or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

ART. 11. All elections ought to be free; and every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to elect and be elected into office; but no person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state, who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language, and to write, provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age or upwards on the first day of January, A. D. 1904.

ART. 12. Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property. He is, therefore, bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service, when necessary, or an equivalent. But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him or applied to public uses without his own consent or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they or their representative body have given their consent.

ART. 13. No person who is conscientiously scrupulous about the lawfulness of bearing arms shall be compelled thereto, provided he will pay an equivalent.

ART. 14. Every subject of this state is entitled to a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries he may receive in his person, property or character; to obtain right and justice freely, without being obliged to purchase it; completely and without any denial; promptly, and without delay; conformably to the laws.

ART. 15. No subject shall be held to answer for any crime or offense until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him, or be compelled to accuse or furnish evidence against himself. And every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to himself, to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defense by himself and counsel. And no subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled or deprived of his property, immunities or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled or deprived of his life, liberty, or estate, but by the judgment of his peers or the law of the land.

ART. 16. No subject shall be liable to be tried, after an acquittal, for the same crime or offense; nor shall the legislature make any law that shall subject any person to a capital punishment (excepting for the government of the army and navy, and the militia in actual service) without trial by jury.

ART. 17. In criminal prosecutions, the trial of facts in the vicinity where they happen is so essential to the security of the life, liberty, and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county than that in which it is committed, except in cases of general insurrection in any particular county, when it shall appear to the judges of the superior court that an impartial trial cannot be had in the county where the offense may be committed, and, upon their report, the legislature shall think proper to direct the trial in the nearest county in which an impartial trial can be obtained.

ART. 18. All penalties ought to be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. Where the same undistinguishing severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do the lightest offenses. For the same reason, a multitude of sanguinary laws is both impolitic and unjust, the true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate, mankind.

ART. 19. Every subject hath a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. Therefore, all warrants to search suspected places or arrest a person for examination or trial, in prosecutions for criminal matters, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation, and if the order, in a warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places or to arrest one or more suspected persons or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the person or object of search, arrest or seizure; and no warrant ought to be issued but in cases and with the formalities prescribed by law.

ART. 20. In all controversies concerning property and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has been heretofore otherwise used and practiced, and except in cases in which the value in controversy does not exceed one hundred dollars and title of real estate is not concerned, the parties have a right to trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases arising on the high seas and such as relate to mariners' wages, the legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it.

ART. 21. In order to reap the fullest advantage of the inestimable privilege of trial by jury, great care ought to be taken that none but qualified persons should be appointed to serve; and such ought to be fully compensated for their travel, time, and attendance.

ART. 22. The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a state; it ought, therefore, to be inviolably preserved.

ART. 23. Retrospective laws are highly injurious, oppressive, and unjust. No such laws, therefore, should be made, either for the decision of civil causes or the punishment of offenses.

ART. 24. A well-regulated militia is the proper, natural, and sure defense of a state.

ART. 25. Standing armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised or kept up without the consent of the legislature.

ART. 26. In all cases and at all times, the military ought to be under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power.

ART. 27. No soldier, in time of peace, shall be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; and, in time of war, such quarters ought not to be made but by the civil magistrate, in a manner ordained by the legislature.

ART. 28. No subsidy, charge, tax, impost or duty shall be established, fixed, laid or levied, under any pretext whatsoever, without the consent of the people or their representatives in the legislature, or authority derived from that body.

ART. 29. The power of suspending the laws or the execution of them ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived therefrom, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for.

ART. 30. The freedom of deliberation, speech, and debate in either house of the legislature is so essential to the rights of the people that it cannot be the foundation of any action, complaint or prosecution in any other court or place whatsoever.

ART. 31. The legislature shall assemble for the redress of public grievances, and for making such laws as the public good may require.

ART. 32. The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble and consult upon the common good, give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by way of petition or remonstrance, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer.

ART. 33. No magistrate or court of law shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.

ART. 34. No person can in any case be subjected to law martial or to any pains or penalties by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.

ART. 35. It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well, subject, however, to such limitations on account of age as may be provided by the constitution of the state; and that they should have honorable salaries, ascertained and established by standing laws.

ART. 36. Economy being a most essential virtue in all states, especially in a young one, no pension should be granted but in consideration of actual services; and such pensions ought to be granted with great caution by the legislature, and never for more than one year at a time.

ART. 37. In the government of this state, the three essential powers thereof—to wit, the legislative, executive, and judicial—ought to be kept as separate from, and independent of, each other as the nature of a free government will admit or as is consistent with that chain of connection that binds the whole fabric of the constitution in one indissoluble bond of union and amity.

ART. 38. A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution and a constant adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry, frugality, and all the social virtues, are indispensably necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and good government. The people ought, therefore, to have a particular regard to all those principles in the choice of their officers and representatives; and they have a right to require of their lawgivers and magistrates an exact and constant observance of them in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of government.

PART SECOND.

FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

ARTICLE 1. The people inhabiting the territory formerly called The Province of New Hampshire do hereby solemnly and mutually agree with each other to form themselves into a free, sovereign, and independent body politic or state by the name of THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

GENERAL COURT.

ART. 2. The supreme legislative power within this state shall be vested in the senate and house of representatives, each of which shall have a negative on the other.

ART. 3. The senate and house shall assemble biennially, on the first Wednesday of January and at such other times as they may judge necessary, and shall dissolve and be dissolved seven days next preceding the said first Wednesday of January biennially, and shall be styled THE GENERAL COURT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

ART. 4. The general court shall forever have full power and authority to erect and constitute judicatories and courts of record or other courts, to be holden in the name of the state, for the hearing, trying, and determining all manner of crimes, offenses, pleas, processes, complaints, actions, causes, matters, and things whatsoever, arising or happening within this state, or between or concerning persons inhabiting, or residing, or brought within the same, or whether the same be criminal or civil, or whether the crimes be capital or not capital, and whether the said pleas be real, personal, or mixed, and for the awarding and issuing execution thereon; to which courts and judicatories are hereby given and granted full power and authority, from time to time, to administer oaths or affirmations for the better discovery of truth in any matter in controversy or depending before them.

ART. 5. And, further, full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the said general court, from time to time to make, ordain, and establish all manner of wholesome and reasonable orders, laws, statutes, ordinances, directions, and instructions, either with penalties or without, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution, as they may judge for the benefit and welfare of this state and for the governing and ordering thereof and of the subjects of the same, for the necessary support and defense of the government thereof; and to name and settle biennially, or provide by fixed laws for the naming and settling all civil officers within this state, such officers excepted the election and appointment of whom are hereafter in this form of government otherwise provided for; and to set forth the several duties, powers, and limits of the several civil and military officers of this state, and the forms of such oaths or affirmations as shall be respectively administered unto them for the execution of their several offices and places, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution; and, also, to impose fines, mulcts, imprisonments, and other punishments; and to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessments, rates, and taxes upon all the inhabitants of, and residents within, the said state, and upon all estates within the same, to be issued and disposed of by warrant, under the hand of the governor of this state for the time being, with the advice and consent of the council, for the public service, in the necessary defense and support of the government of this state and the protection and preservation of the subjects thereof, according to such acts as are or shall be in force within the same. Provided, that the general court shall not authorize any town to loan or give its money or credit, directly or indirectly, for the benefit of any corporation having for its object a dividend of profits, or in any way aid the same by taking its stock or bonds.

ART. 6. The public charges of government or any part thereof may be raised by taxation upon polls, estates, and other classes of property, including franchises and property when passing by will or inheritance; and there shall be a valuation of the estates within the state taken anew once in every five years, at least, and as much oftener as the general court shall order.

ART. 7. No member of the general court shall take fees, be of counsel or act as advocate in any cause before either branch of the legislature; and, upon due proof thereof, such member shall forfeit his seat in the legislature.

ART. 8. The doors of the galleries of each house of the legislature shall be kept open to all persons who behave decently, except when the welfare of the state, in the opinion of either branch, shall require secrecy.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

ART. 9. There shall be, in the legislature of this state, a representation of the people, biennially elected, and founded upon principles of equality, and, in order that such representation may be as equal as circumstances will admit, every town, or place entitled to town privileges, and wards of cities having six hundred inhabitants by the last general census of the state, taken by authority of the United States or of this state, may elect one representative; if eighteen hundred such inhabitants, may elect two representatives; and so proceeding in that proportion, making twelve hundred such inhabitants the mean increasing number for any additional representative: provided, that no town shall be divided or the boundaries of the wards of any city so altered as to increase the number of representatives to which such town or city may be entitled by the next preceding census; and provided, further, that, to those towns and cities which since the last census have been divided or had their boundaries or ward lines changed, the general court, in session next before these amendments shall take effect, shall equitably apportion representation in such manner that the number shall not be greater than it would have been had no such division or alteration been made.

ART. 10. Whenever any town, place, or city ward shall have less than six hundred such inhabitants, the general court shall authorize such town, place or ward to elect and send to the general court a representative such proportionate part of the time as the number of its inhabitants shall bear to six hundred; but the general court shall not authorize any such town, place or ward to elect and send such representative, except as herein provided.

ART. 11. The members of the house of representatives shall be chosen biennially, in the month of November, and shall be the second branch of the legislature.

ART. 12. All persons qualified to vote in the election of senators shall be entitled to vote, within the district where they dwell, in the choice of representatives.

ART. 13. Every member of the house of representatives shall be chosen by ballot, and, for two years, at least, next preceding his election, shall have been an inhabitant of this state; shall be, at the time of his election, an inhabitant of the town, parish or place he may be chosen to represent; and shall cease to represent such town, parish or place immediately on his ceasing to be qualified as aforesaid.

ART. 14. The presiding officers of both houses of the legislature shall severally receive out of the state treasury as compensation in full for their services, for the term elected, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, and all other members thereof seasonably attending and not departing without license, the sum of two hundred dollars, exclusive of mileage: provided, however, that when a special session shall be called by the governor, such officers and members shall receive for attendance an additional compensation of three dollars per day for a period not exceeding fifteen days, and the usual mileage.

ART. 15. All intermediate vacancies in the house of representatives may be filled up from time to time in the same manner as biennial elections are made.

ART. 16. The house of representatives shall be the grand inquest of the state, and all impeachments made by them shall be heard and tried by the senate.

ART. 17. All money bills shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

ART. 18. The house of representatives shall have power to adjourn themselves, but no longer than two days at a time.

ART. 19. A majority of the members of the house of representatives shall be a quorum for doing business, but, when less than two thirds of the representatives elected shall be present, the assent of two thirds of those members shall be necessary to render their acts and proceedings valid.

ART. 20. No member of the house of representatives or senate shall be arrested or held to bail on mesne process during his going to, returning from, or attendance upon, the court.

ART. 21. The house of representatives shall choose their own speaker, appoint their own officers, and settle the rules of proceedings in their own house, and shall be judge of the returns, elections, and qualifications of its members, as pointed out in this constitution. They shall have authority to punish by imprisonment every person who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house, in its presence, by any disorderly and contemptuous behavior, or by threatening or illtreating any of its members, or by obstructing its deliberations; every person guilty of a breach of its privileges in making arrests for debt, or by assaulting any member during his attendance at any session; in assaulting or disturbing any one of its officers in the execution of any order or procedure of the house; in assaulting any witness or other person ordered to attend by, and during his attendance of, the house, or in rescuing any person arrested by order of the house, knowing them to be such.

ART. 22. The senate, governor, and council shall have the same powers in like cases, provided, that no imprisonment by either for any offense exceed ten days.

ART. 23. The journals of the proceedings and all public acts of both houses of the legislature shall be printed and published immediately after every adjournment or prorogation, and upon motion made by any one member, the yeas and nays upon any question shall be entered on the journal, and any member of the senate or house of representatives shall have a right, on motion made at the time for that purpose, to have his protest or dissent, with the reasons, against any vote, resolve or bill passed, entered on the journal.

SENATE.

ART. 24. The senate shall consist of twenty-four members, who shall hold their office for two years from the first Wednesday of January next ensuing their election.

ART. 25. And, that the state may be equally represented in the senate, the legislature shall, from time to time, divide the state into twenty-four districts, as nearly equal as may be without dividing towns and unincorporated places; and, in making this division, they shall govern themselves by the proportion of direct taxes paid by the said districts, and timely make known to the inhabitants of the state the limits of each district.

ART. 26. The free holders and other inhabitants of each district, qualified as in this constitution is provided, shall biennially give in their votes for a senator at some meeting holden in the month of November.

ART. 27. The senate shall be the first branch of the legislature, and the senators shall be chosen in the following manner, viz.: every male inhabitant of each town, and parish with town privileges, and places unincorporated, in this state, of twenty-one years of age and upward, excepting paupers and persons excused from paying taxes at their own request, shall have a right, at the biennial or other meetings of the inhabitants of said towns and parishes, to be duly warned and holden biennially, forever, in the month of November, to vote, in the town or parish wherein he dwells, for the senator in the district whereof he is a member.

ART. 28. Provided, nevertheless, that no person shall be capable of being elected a senator who is not of the age of thirty years, and who shall not have been an inhabitant of this state for seven years immediately preceding his election; and, at the time thereof, he shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he shall be chosen.

ART. 29. And every person qualified as the constitution provides shall be considered an inhabitant, for the purpose of electing and being elected into any office or place within this state, in the town, parish, and plantation where he dwelleth and hath his home.

ART. 30. And the inhabitants of plantations and places unincorporated, qualified as this constitution provides, who are or shall be required to assess taxes upon themselves towards the support of government, or shall be taxed therefor, shall have the same privilege of voting for senators, in the plantations and places wherein they reside, as the inhabitants of the respective towns and parishes aforesaid have. And the meetings of such plantations and places, for that purpose, shall be holden biennially in the month of November, at such places respectively therein as the assessors thereof shall direct; which assessors shall have like authority for notifying the electors, collecting and returning the votes, as the selectmen and town clerks have in their several towns by this constitution.

ART. 31. The meetings for the choice of governor, council, and senators shall be warned by warrant from the selectmen, and governed by a moderator, who shall, in the presence of the selectmen (whose duty it shall be to attend), in open meeting, receive the votes of all the inhabitants of such towns and parishes present and qualified to vote for senators; and shall, in said meetings, in presence of the said selectmen and of the town clerk in said meetings, sort and count the said votes, and make a public declaration thereof, with the name of every person voted for and the number of votes for each person; and the town clerk shall make a fair record of the same, at large, in the town book, and shall make out a fair attested copy thereof, to be by him sealed up and directed to the secretary of the state, with a superscription expressing the purport thereof; and the said town clerk shall cause such attested copy to be delivered to the sheriff of the county in which said town or parish shall lie thirty days, at least before the first Wednesday of January, or to the secretary of the state at least twenty days before the said first Wednesday of January, and the sheriff of each county or his deputy shall deliver all such certificates by him received into the secretary's office at least twenty days before the first Wednesday of January.

ART. 32. And, that there may be a due meeting of senators on the first Wednesday of January, biennially, the governor and a majority of the council for the time being shall, as soon as may be, examine the returned copies of such records, and, fourteen days before the first Wednesday of January, he shall issue his summons to such persons as appear to be chosen senators by a majority of votes to attend and take their seats on that day: provided, nevertheless, that, for the first year, the said returned copies shall be examined by the president and a majority of the council then in office; and the said president shall, in like manner, notify the persons elected to attend and take their seats accordingly.

ART. 33. And in case there shall not appear to be a senator elected by a majority of votes for any district, the deficiency shall be supplied in the following manner, viz.: the members of the house of representatives and such senators as shall be declared elected shall take the names of the two persons having the highest number of votes in the district, and out of them shall elect, by joint ballot, the senator wanted for such district; and, in this manner, all such vacancies shall be filled up in every district of the state; all vacancies in the senate arising by death, removal out of the state, or otherwise, except from failure to elect, shall be filled by a new election by the people of the district, upon the requisition of the governor, as soon as may be after such vacancies shall happen.

ART. 34. The senate shall be final judges of the elections, returns, and qualifications of their own members, as pointed out in this constitution.

ART. 35. The senate shall have power to adjourn themselves, provided such adjournment do not exceed two days at a time: provided, nevertheless, that, whenever they shall sit on the trial of any impeachment, they may adjourn to such time and place as they may think proper, although the legislature be not assembled on such day or at such place.

ART. 36. The senate shall appoint their president and other officers, and determine their own rules of proceedings. And not less than thirteen members of the senate shall make a quorum for doing business; and, when less than sixteen senators shall be present, the assent of ten, at least, shall be necessary to render their acts and proceedings valid.

ART. 37. The senate shall be a court, with full power and authority to hear, try, and determine all impeachments made by the house of representatives against any officer or officers of the state, for bribery, corruption, malpractice, or maladministration in office, with full power to issue summons or compulsory process for convening witnesses before them; but, previous to the trial of any such impeachment, the members of the senate shall respectively be sworn truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question according to evidence. And every officer impeached for bribery, corruption, malpractice, or maladministration in office shall be served with an attested copy of the impeachment and order of senate thereon, with such citation as the senate may direct, setting forth the time and place of their sitting to try the impeachment; which service shall be made by the sheriff or such other sworn officer as the senate may appoint, at least fourteen days previous to the time of trial; and, such citation being duly served and returned, the senate may proceed in the hearing of the impeachment, giving the person impeached, if he shall appear, full liberty of producing witnesses and proofs and of making his defense by himself and counsel; and may also, upon his refusing or neglecting to appear, hear the proofs in support of the impeachment, and render judgment thereon, his non-appearance notwithstanding; and such judgment shall have the same force and effect as if the person impeached had appeared and pleaded in the trial.

ART. 38. Their judgment, however, shall not extend further than removal from office, disqualification to hold or enjoy any place of honor, trust or profit under this state; but the party so convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to the laws of the land.

ART. 39. Whenever the governor shall be impeached, the chief justice of the supreme judicial court shall, during the trial, preside in the senate, but have no vote therein.

EXECUTIVE POWER.—GOVERNOR.

ART. 40. There shall be a supreme executive magistrate, who shall be styled Governor of the State of New Hampshire, and whose title shall be His Excellency.

ART. 41. The governor shall be chosen biennially, in the month of November, and the votes for governor shall be received, sorted, counted, certified, and returned in the same manner as the votes for senators; and the secretary shall lay the same before the senate and house of representatives on the first Wednesday of January, to be by them examined; and, in case of an election by a majority of votes through the state, the choice shall be by them declared and published; and the qualifications of electors of the governor shall be the same as those for senators; and, if no person shall have a majority of votes, the senate and house of representatives shall, by a joint ballot, elect one of the two persons having the highest number of votes, who shall be declared governor. And no person shall be eligible to this office unless, at the time of his election, he shall have been an inhabitant of this state for seven years next preceding, and unless he shall be of the age of thirty years.

ART. 42. In cases of disagreement between the two houses with regard to the time or place of adjournment or prorogation, the governor, with advice of council, shall have the right to adjourn or prorogue the general court, not exceeding ninety days at any one time, as he may determine the public good may require; and he shall dissolve the same seven days before the said first Wednesday of January. And in case of any infectious distemper prevailing in the place where the said court at any time is to convene, or any other cause whereby dangers may arise to the health or lives of the members from their attendance, the governor may direct the session to be holden at some other, the most convenient, place within the state.

ART. 43. Every bill which shall have passed both houses of the general court shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with such objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and, if approved by two thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But, in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within five days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ART. 44. Every resolve shall be presented to the governor, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

ART. 45. All judicial officers, the attorney-general, coroners, and all officers of the navy and general and field officers of the militia, shall be nominated and appointed by the governor and council; and every such nomination shall be made at least three days prior to such appointment; and no appointment shall take place unless a majority of the council agree thereto.

ART. 46. The governor and council shall have a negative on each other, both in the nominations and appointments. Every nomination and appointment shall be signed by the governor and council, and every negative shall be also signed by the governor or council who made the same.

ART. 47. The captains and subalterns in the respective regiments shall be nominated and recommended by the field officers to the governor, who is to issue their commissions immediately on receipt of such recommendation; provided, that no person shall be so nominated and recommended until he shall have been examined and found duly qualified by an examining board appointed by the governor.

ART. 48. Whenever the chair of the governor shall become vacant, by reason of his death, absence from the state, or otherwise, the president of the senate shall, during such vacancy, have and exercise all the powers and authorities, which, by this constitution, the governor is vested with when personally present; but, when the president of the senate shall exercise the office of governor, he shall not hold his office in the senate. Whenever the chair both of the governor and of the president of the senate shall become vacant, by reason of their death, absence from the state, or otherwise, the speaker of the house shall, during such vacancies, have and exercise all the powers and authorities which, by this constitution, the governor is vested with when personally present; but when the speaker of the house shall exercise the office of governor, he shall not hold his office in the house.

ART. 49. The governor, with advice of council, shall have full power and authority, in recess of the general court, to prorogue the same from time to time, not exceeding ninety days in any one recess of said court; and, during the sessions of said court, to adjourn or prorogue it to any time the two houses may desire; and to call it together sooner than the time to which it may be adjourned or prorogued, if the welfare of the state should require the same.

ART. 50. The governor of this state, for the time being, shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy and all the military forces of the state by sea and land; and shall have full power, by himself or by any chief commander or other officer or officers, from time to time to train, instruct, exercise, and govern the militia and navy; and for the special defense and safety of this state, to assemble in martial array and put in warlike posture the inhabitants thereof, and to lead and conduct them, and with them to encounter, repulse, repel, resist, and pursue by force of arms, as well by sea as by land, within and without the limits of this state; and also to kill, slay, destroy, if necessary, and conquer, by all fitting ways, enterprise, and means, all and every such person and persons as shall at any time hereafter, in a hostile manner, attempt or enterprise the destruction, invasion, detriment or annoyance of this state; and to use and exercise over the army and navy and over the militia in actual service the law martial, in time of war, invasion, and also in rebellion declared by the legislature to exist, as occasion shall necessarily require; and surprise, by all ways and means, whatsoever, all and every such person or persons, with their ships, arms, ammunition, and other goods, as shall, in a hostile manner, invade or attempt the invading, conquering or annoying this state; and, in fine, the governor hereby is intrusted with all other powers incident to the office of captain-general and commander-in-chief and admiral, to be exercised agreeably to the rules and regulations of the constitution and laws of the land; provided, that the governor shall not at any time hereafter, by virtue of any power by this constitution granted, or hereafter to be granted to him by the legislature, transport any of the inhabitants of this state or oblige them to march out of the limits of the same without their free and voluntary consent or the consent of the general court, nor grant commissions for exercising the law martial in any case without the advice and consent of the council.

ART. 51. The power of pardoning offenses, except such as persons may be convicted of before the senate, by impeachment of the house, shall be in the governor, by and with the advice of council; but no charter of pardon, granted by the governor, with advice of council, before conviction, shall avail the party pleading the same, notwithstanding any general or particular expressions contained therein, descriptive of the offense or offenses intended to be pardoned.

ART. 52. No officer, duly commissioned to command in the militia, shall be removed from his office but by the address of both houses to the governor or by fair trial in court-martial pursuant to the laws of the state for the time being.

ART. 53. The commanding officers of the regiments shall appoint their adjutants and quartermasters; the brigadiers, their brigade-majors; the major-generals, their aids; the captains and subalterns, their non-commissioned officers.

ART. 54. The division of the militia into brigades, regiments, and companies, made in pursuance of the militia laws now in force, shall be considered as the proper division of the militia of this state, until the same shall be altered by some future law.

ART. 55. No moneys shall be issued out of the treasury of this state and disposed of (except such sums as may be appropriated for the redemption of bills of credit or treasurer's notes, or for the payment of interest arising thereon) but by warrant under the hand of the governor for the time being, by and with the advice and consent of the council, for the necessary support and defense of this state, and for the necessary protection and preservation of the inhabitants thereof, agreeably to the acts and resolves of the general court.

ART. 56. All public boards, the commissary-general, all superintending officers of public magazines and stores belonging to this state, and all commanding officers of forts and garrisons within the same shall, once in every three months, officially and without requisition, and at other times when required by the governor, deliver to him an account of all goods, stores, provisions, ammunition, cannon with their appendages, and all small arms with their accoutrements, and all other public property under their care respectively, distinguishing the quantity and kind of each as particularly as may be, together with the condition of such forts and garrisons. And the commanding officer shall exhibit to the governor, when required by him, true and exact plans of such forts, and of the land and sea, or harbor or harbors adjacent.

ART. 57. The governor and council shall be compensated for their services, from time to time, by such grants as the general court shall think reasonable.

ART. 58. Permanent and honorable salaries shall be established by law for the justices of the superior court.

COUNCIL.

ART. 59. There shall be biennially elected by ballot five councilors, for advising the governor in the executive part of government. The free holders and other inhabitants in each county, qualified to vote for senators, shall, some time in the month of November, give in their votes for one councilor, which votes shall be received, sorted, counted, certified, and returned to the secretary's office, in the same manner as the votes for senators, to be by the secretary laid before the senate and house of representatives on the first Wednesday of January.

ART. 60. And the person having a majority of votes in any county shall be considered as duly elected a councilor; but, if no person shall have a majority of votes in any county, the senate and house of representatives shall take the names of the two persons who have the highest number of votes in each county and not elected, and out of those two shall elect, by joint ballot, the councilor wanted for the county; and the qualifications for councilors shall be the same as for senator.

ART. 61. If any person thus chosen a councilor shall be elected governor or member of either branch of the legislature and shall accept the trust, or if any person elected a councilor shall refuse to accept the office, or in case of the death, resignation or removal of any councilor out of the state, the governor may issue a precept for the election of a new councilor in that county where such vacancy shall happen; and the choice shall be in the same manner as before directed; and the governor shall have full power and authority to convene the council from time to time, at his discretion; and with them or the majority of them, may and shall, from time to time, hold a council for ordering and directing the affairs of the state, according to the laws of the land.

ART. 62. The members of the council may be impeached by the house and tried by the senate for bribery, corruption, malpractice or maladministration.

ART. 63. The resolutions and advice of the council shall be recorded by the secretary in a register, and signed by all the members present agreeing thereto; and this record may be called for at any time by either house of the legislature; and any member of the council may enter his opinion contrary to the resolution of the majority, with the reasons for such opinion.

ART. 64. The legislature may, if the public good shall hereafter require it, divide the state into five districts, as nearly equal as may be, governing themselves by the number of ratable polls and proportion of public taxes, each district to elect a councilor; and, in case of such division, the manner of the choice shall be conformable to the present mode of election in counties.

ART. 65. And, whereas the elections appointed to be made by this constitution on the first Wednesday of January biennially, by the two houses of the legislature, may not be completed on that day, the said elections may be adjourned from day to day until the same be completed. And the order of the elections shall be as follows: The vacancies in the senate, if any, shall be first filled up; the governor shall then be elected, provided there shall be no choice of him by the people; and afterwards, the two houses shall proceed to fill up the vacancy, if any, in the council.

SECRETARY, TREASURER, COMMISSARY-GENERAL, ETC.

ART. 66. The secretary, treasurer, and commissary-general shall be chosen by joint ballot of the senators and representatives, assembled in one room.

ART. 67. The records of the state shall be kept in the office of the secretary; and he shall attend the governor and council, the senate and representatives, in person or by deputy, as they may require.

ART. 68. The secretary of the state shall at all times have a deputy, to be by him appointed, for whose conduct in office he shall be responsible; and, in case of the death, removal or inability of the secretary, his deputy shall exercise all the duties of the office of secretary of this state until another shall be appointed.

ART. 69. The secretary, before he enters upon the business of his office, shall give bond, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum, for the use of the state, for the punctual performance of his trust.

COUNTY TREASURERS, ETC.

ART. 70. The county treasurers, registers of probate, solicitors, sheriffs, and registers of deeds shall be elected by the inhabitants of the several towns in the several counties in the state, according to the method now practiced and the laws of the state; provided, nevertheless, the legislature shall have authority to alter the manner of certifying the votes and the mode of electing those officers, but not so as to deprive the people of the right they now have of electing them.

ART. 71. And the legislature, on the application of the major part of the inhabitants of any county, shall have authority to divide the same into two districts for registering deeds, if to them it shall appear necessary, each district to elect a register of deeds; and, before they enter upon the business of their offices, shall be respectively sworn faithfully to discharge the duties thereof, and shall severally give bond, with sufficient sureties, in a reasonable sum, for the use of the county, for the punctual performance of their respective trusts.

JUDICIARY POWER.

ART. 72. The tenure that all commissioned officers shall have by law in their offices shall be expressed in their respective commissions. All judicial officers, duly appointed, commissioned, and sworn, shall hold their offices during good behavior, excepting those concerning whom there is a different provision made in this constitution; provided, nevertheless, the governor, with consent of council, may remove them upon the address of both houses of the legislature.

ART. 73. Each branch of the legislature, as well as the governor and council, shall have authority to require the opinions of the justices of the superior court upon important questions of law and upon solemn occasions.

ART. 74. In order that the people may not suffer from the long continuance in place of any justice of the peace who shall fail in discharging the important duties of his office with ability and fidelity, all commissions of justices of the peace shall become void at the expiration of five years from their respective dates; and upon the expiration of any commission, the same may, if necessary, be renewed, or another person appointed, as shall most conduce to the well being of the state.

ART. 75. All cases of marriage, divorce, and alimony, and all appeals from the respective judges of probate, shall be heard and tried by the superior court, until the legislature shall by law make other provision.

ART. 76. The general court are empowered to give to justices of the peace jurisdiction in civil causes, when the damages demanded shall not exceed one hundred dollars and title of real estate is not concerned, but with right of appeal to either party to some other court.

ART. 77. No person shall hold the office of judge of any court, or judge of probate, or sheriff of any county, after he has attained the age of seventy years.

ART. 78. No judge of any court or justice of the peace shall act as attorney, or be of counsel to any party, or originate any civil suit, in matters which shall come or be brought before him as judge or justice of the peace.

ART. 79. All matters relating to the probate of wills and granting letters of administration shall be exercised by the judges of probate in such manner as the legislature have directed or may hereafter direct; and the judges of probate shall hold their courts at such place or places, on such fixed days as the conveniency of the people may require and the legislature from time to time appoint.

ART. 80. No judge or register of probate shall be of counsel, act as advocate, or receive any fees as advocate or counsel, in any probate business which is pending or may be brought into any court of probate in the county of which he is judge or register.

CLERKS OF COURTS.

ART. 81. The judges of the courts (those of probate excepted) shall appoint their respective clerks, to hold their office during pleasure; and no such clerk shall act as an attorney or be of counsel in any cause in the court of which he is a clerk, nor shall he draw any writ originating a civil action.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF LITERATURE, ETC.

ART. 82. Knowledge and learning generally diffused through a community being essential to the preservation of a free government, and spreading the opportunities and advantages of education through the various parts of the country being highly conducive to promote this end, it shall be the duty of the legislators and magistrates, in all future periods of this government, to cherish the interest of literature and the sciences, and all seminaries and public schools; to encourage private and public institutions, rewards, and immunities for the promotion of agriculture, arts, sciences, commerce, trades, manufactures, and natural history, of the country; to countenance and inculcate the principles of humanity and general benevolence, public and private charity, industry and economy, honesty and punctuality, sincerity, sobriety, and all social affections and generous sentiments, among the people; provided, nevertheless, that no money raised by taxation shall ever be granted or applied for the use of the schools or institutions of any religious sect or denomination. Free and fair competition in the trades and industries is an inherent and essential right of the people and should be protected against all monopolies and conspiracies which tend to hinder or destroy it. The size and functions of all corporations should be so limited and regulated as to prohibit fictitious capitalization, and provision should be made for the supervision and government thereof:—Therefore, all just power possessed by the state is hereby granted to the general court to enact laws to prevent the operations within the state of all persons and associations, and all trusts and corporations, foreign and domestic, and the officers thereof, who endeavor to raise the price of any article of commerce or to destroy free and fair competition in the trades and industries through combination, conspiracy, monopoly, or any other unfair means; to control and regulate the acts of all such persons, associations, corporations, trusts, and officials doing business within the state; to prevent fictitious capitalization; and to authorize civil and criminal proceedings in respect to all the wrongs herein declared against.

OATHS AND SUBSCRIPTIONS.—EXCLUSION FROM OFFICES.—COMMISSIONS.—WRITS.—CONFIRMATION OF LAWS.—HABEAS CORPUS.—THE ENACTING STYLE.—CONTINUANCE OF OFFICERS.—PROVISION FOR A FUTURE REVISION OF THE CONSTITUTION.—ETC.

ART. 83. Any person chosen governor, councilor, senator or representative, military or civil officer (town officers excepted), accepting the trust, shall, before he proceeds to execute the duties of his office, make and subscribe the following declarations, viz.:

I, A B, do solemnly swear that I will bear faith and true allegiance to the state of New Hampshire and will support the constitution thereof. So help me God.

I, A B, do solemnly and sincerely swear and affirm that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as ———, according to the best of my abilities, agreeably to the rules and regulations of this constitution and the laws of the state of New Hampshire. So help me God.

Any person having taken and subscribed the oath of allegiance, and the same being filed in the secretary's office, he shall not be obliged to take said oath again.

Provided, always, when any person chosen or appointed as aforesaid shall be of the denomination called Quakers, or shall be scrupulous of swearing and shall decline taking the said oaths, such person shall take and subscribe them, omitting the word "swear," and likewise the words "So help me God," subjoining instead thereof, "This I do under the pains and penalties of perjury."

ART. 84. And the oaths or affirmations shall be taken and subscribed by the governor, before the president of the senate, in presence of both houses of the legislature; and by the senators and representatives first elected under this constitution, as altered and amended, before the president of the state and a majority of the council then in office, and forever afterward before the governor and council for the time being; and by all other officers, before such persons and in such manner as the legislature shall from time to time appoint.

ART. 85. All commissions shall be in the name of the state of New Hampshire, signed by the governor, and attested by the secretary or his deputy, and shall have the great seal of the state affixed thereto.

ART. 86. All writs issuing out of the clerk's office, in any of the courts of law, shall be in the name of the state of New Hampshire, shall be under the seal of the court whence they issue, and bear teste of the chief, first or senior justice of the court, but, when such justice shall be interested, then the writ shall bear teste of some other justice of the court, to which the same shall be returnable; and be signed by the clerk of such court.

ART. 87. All indictments, presentments, and information shall conclude, "against the peace and dignity of the state."

ART. 88. The estate of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall not for that offense be forfeited, but descend or ascend in the same manner as if such persons had died in a natural way. Nor shall any article which shall accidentally occasion the death of any person be henceforth deemed a deodand, or in any wise forfeited on account of such misfortune.

ART. 89. All the laws which have heretofore been adopted, used, and approved in the province, colony or state of New Hampshire, and usually practiced on in the courts of law, shall remain and be in full force until altered and repealed by the legislature, such parts thereof only excepted as are repugnant to the rights and liberties contained in this constitution; provided, that nothing herein contained, when compared with the twenty-third article in the bill of rights, shall be construed to affect the laws already made respecting the persons or estates of absentees.

ART. 90. The privilege and benefit of the habeas corpus shall be enjoyed in this state in the most free, easy, cheap, expeditious, and ample manner, and shall not be suspended by the legislature except upon the most urgent and pressing occasions, and for a time not exceeding three months.

ART. 91. The enacting style, in making and passing acts, statutes, and laws, shall be, Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives in general court convened.

ART. 92. No governor or judge of the supreme judicial court shall hold any office or place under the authority of this state, except such as by this constitution they are admitted to hold, saving that the judges of the said court may hold the offices of justices of the peace throughout the state; nor shall they hold any place or office or receive any pension or salary from any other state, government or power whatever.

ART. 93. No person shall be capable of exercising at the same time more than one of the following offices within this state, viz.: judge of probate, sheriff, register of deeds; and never more than two offices of profit, which may be held by appointment of the governor, or governor and council, or senate and house of representatives, or superior or inferior courts, military offices and offices of justices of the peace excepted.

ART. 94. No person holding the office of judge of any court (except special judges), secretary, treasurer of the state, attorney-general, commissary-general, military officers receiving pay from the continent or this state (excepting officers of the militia occasionally called forth on an emergency), register of deeds, sheriff or officers of the customs, including naval officers, collectors of excise and state and continental taxes hereafter appointed, and not having settled their accounts with the respective officers with whom it is their duty to settle such accounts, members of congress, or any person holding any office under the United States, shall at the same time hold the office of governor, or have a seat in the senate or house of representatives or council; but his being chosen and appointed to and accepting the same shall operate as a resignation of their seat in the chair, senate or house of representatives or council, and the place so vacated shall be filled up. No member of the council shall have a seat in the senate or house of representatives.

ART. 95. No person shall ever be admitted to hold a seat in the legislature, or any office of trust or importance under this government, who, in the due course of law, has been convicted of bribery or corruption in obtaining an election or appointment.

ART. 96. In all cases where sums of money are mentioned in this constitution, the value thereof shall be computed in silver at six shillings and eight pence per ounce.

ART. 97. To the end that there may be no failure of justice or danger to the state by the alterations and amendments made in the constitution, the general court is hereby fully authorized and directed to fix the time when the alterations and amendments shall take effect, and make the necessary arrangements accordingly.

ART. 98. It shall be the duty of the selectmen and assessors of the several towns and places in this state, in warning the first annual meetings for the choice of senators, after the expiration of seven years from the adoption of this constitution as amended, to insert expressly in the warrant this purpose among the others for the meeting, to wit: to take the sense of the qualified voters on the subject of a revision of the constitution; and, the meeting being warned accordingly, and not otherwise, the moderator shall take the sense of the qualified voters present as to the necessity of a revision; and a return of the number of votes for and against such necessity shall be made by the clerks, sealed up and directed to the general court by their then next session; and if it shall appear to the general court by such return that the sense of the people of the state has been taken, and that, in the opinion of a majority of the qualified voters in the state present and voting at said meetings, there is a necessity for a revision of the constitution, it shall be the duty of the general court to call a convention for that purpose; otherwise the general court shall direct the sense of the people to be taken, and then proceed in the manner before mentioned; the delegates to be chosen in the same manner and proportioned as the representatives to the general court; provided, that no alteration shall be made in this constitution before the same shall be laid before the towns and unincorporated places and approved by two thirds of the qualified voters present and voting on the subject.

ART. 99. And the same method of taking the sense of the people as to a revision of the constitution, and calling a convention for that purpose, shall be observed afterward, at the expiration of every seven years.

ART. 100. This form of government shall be enrolled on parchment and deposited in the secretary's office, and be a part of the laws of the land, and printed copies thereof shall be prefixed to the books containing the laws of this state in all future editions thereof.
