ROCKINGHAM, SS.

SUPERIOR COURT

DAVID MEEHAN

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE,
DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, et al.

217-2020-CV-00026
and all consolidated YDC and YDSU CASES

STATE DEFENDANTS' OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFFS' MOTION TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND AMENDMENT OF DISCOVERY RESPONSES

The State Defendants respectfully oppose Plaintiffs' Motion to Compel Production of Documents and Amendment of Discovery Responses ("Motion"), filed February 15, 2022.¹

Plaintiffs' complaints and requests ignore the context of this consolidated matter and their own prior requests for early production. Plaintiffs write as if this matter involved one plaintiff alleging abuse at a discrete period of time, rather than an ever-expanding list of well over 800 plaintiffs alleging abuse and seeking documents over a sixty-year period. Further, Plaintiffs' requested relief would impose an excessive and unjustifiable burden on the State Defendants which Plaintiffs' themselves can and should shoulder. The Motion must be denied.

INTRODUCTION

Seeking to prove true the aphorism that "no good deed goes unpunished," Plaintiffs' Motion primarily criticizes the State Defendants' voluntary production of documents collected in connection with the State's investigation into potential criminal conduct at the Youth Development Center ("YDC"). Plaintiffs complain that it is burdensome to sort through the more than 2.5 million pages of documents and wrongly accuse the State Defendants of attempting to bury them in paper to hide relevant evidence. Plaintiffs complain that the State Defendants have been too slow to produce documents in response to their voluminous and overly broad discovery requests, including requests served just three months ago, seeking over sixty years' worth of documents in connection with more than 800 (and counting) Plaintiffs in individual cases accusing more than 100 former staff members of abuse. Plaintiffs, complaining that it is too onerous for them to do so themselves, seek an order requiring the State Defendants to re-review every document it has voluntarily produced to date and match it up to one or more of Plaintiffs' expansive document requests, while – at the same time – requiring the State Defendants to complete any outstanding discovery in the next two months, all while additional plaintiffs are continually being added to these consolidated matters. Plaintiffs' requested relief is excessively and unjustifiably burdensome, if not impossible. It ignores the procedural posture of the case, and the significant efforts the State Defendants have made to move these cases forward. Plaintiffs' Motion must be denied.

I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The State Defendants voluntarily produced documents relating to the Criminal Justice Bureau's ongoing criminal investigation to provide Plaintiffs a broad base of documents before Plaintiffs served document requests in the consolidated action. The expectation, shared with the Court at the June 29, 2022 Case Structuring Hearing, was that Plaintiffs would review those documents before propounding discovery. Plaintiffs apparently did not – and now refuse to – review those documents, and instead served staggeringly broad document requests for practically every document relating to DHHS's operation of YDC over sixty years, and every document relating to an ever-growing list of hundreds of plaintiffs and alleged abusers. Plaintiffs apparently refuse to review the produced documents or even the titles of these documents, which would provide them significant information about the substance and responsiveness of many of the documents. The State Defendants have worked and continue to work diligently to collect documents responsive to Plaintiffs' three sets of requests and continue to produce those documents on a rolling basis.

A. The State Defendants Voluntarily Produced Thousands of Documents Related to Plaintiffs' Claims Before Plaintiffs Served Document Requests in the Consolidated Action and the Plaintiffs Refuse to Review Them.

The Court stayed discovery on all cases in this consolidated action on February 18, 2022. See Order (dated February 18, 2022), ¶ 2. That Spring, in advance of the Case Structuring Hearing, while the stay was in effect, the parties discussed the terms of a Case Structuring Order to govern the hundreds of cases being filed alleging abuse at YDC, other State-run facilities, and at privately-run facilities that contracted with the State. In their proposed Case Structuring Order, Plaintiffs offered to withdraw all discovery requests served on the State Defendants in individual cases,² and the State Defendants accepted this offer. For their part, the State Defendants offered to produce to Plaintiffs certain hard-copy documents (which totaled nearly 2.5 million pages) that the New Hampshire Department of Health and Human Services ("DHHS") had collected and previously produced to the Criminal Justice Bureau in connection with the State's ongoing investigation of potentially criminal conduct by staff at YDC. Plaintiffs' proposed Case Structuring Order anticipated that the State Defendants would begin to produce these documents within 14 days of the entry of the order, and, "to relieve the State Defendants of the burden of having to respond to requests for documents that may already be encompassed within the State Defendants' anticipated production," Plaintiffs proposed that

“requests for production may be served no earlier than thirty days after the State Defendants have made their production.”³

At a June 29, 2022 Case Structuring Hearing, Plaintiffs, eager to “get the discovery ball rolling,” urged the Court to set a hard deadline for submission of a protective order to facilitate the State’s production of the documents it had already collected in connection with the criminal investigations “[s]o we can move forward. At least we get that initial production going, and then we can be more specific” Tr. (June 29, 2022) at 30:13-14, 31:16-18. The Court endorsed production of the documents as a “starter kit,” with the expectation that Plaintiffs would make specific document requests after reviewing the State’s voluntary productions:

So I think at the moment, the discovery at the moment, for what’s going to happen right now, is reasonably set in that there’s going to be this protective order. You’re going to start; you’re going to give them million pages as a starter kit, and we’ll go from there.

After the first million, you come back and say what you need. I mean, I’m being only a little bit flip, but this gets us moving.

Tr. at 35:9-16. In discussing a schedule for motion to dismiss briefing, the Court suggested that Nixon Peabody would review the documents at the same time that the State Defendants reviewed and filed motions to dismiss the Master Complaint and Plaintiffs began rolling out individual complaints. The Court anticipated that Plaintiffs would then file “more fulsome discovery” after the individual complaints were filed:

So I mean, what I’m thinking, it’s now becoming clear, there’s going to be a protective order; there’s going to be like a million pages put into the protective order, three million pages put into the protective order. That’s a nice starter set for them. We’re not need to worry about anything else just quite yet.

While they’re dining on the million pages and you are dining on the master complaint, you can file a motion to dismiss or whatever or clarifications, challenges to the master complaint. We can figure out a little bit more what the generic legal landscape looks like.

Then after they have their individual complaints in, would probably be the time to be requesting more fulsome discovery, but that's only a month away they're going to get their individual complaints. I kind of agree, when you have no complaint pending. I think at that point, they can begin to ask for a more fulsome discovery.

And I don't know. Nixon Peabody's a big firm, but it still takes more than a couple of weeks to be able to memorize three million pages. There's only 14 pages that are going to matter, right? Isn't that how it always works out? There are only 14 that matter. The problem is finding them. Right.

And so it wouldn't be putting off the more contested aspects of discovery.

Tr. at 52:6-53:5. Thus, the Court recognized that Plaintiffs' counsel would review the documents, it would take time, and that only a small fraction might be important.

As the State Defendants have explained to Plaintiffs, documents that were to be produced prior to discovery being propounded were selected for production to the Criminal Justice Bureau in accordance with requests relating to an ongoing criminal investigation. The production included certain categories of information dating back to 1980. The majority of these documents were collected from boxes stored at the YDC Administration Building in Manchester, New Hampshire. The YDC Administration Building is a former YDC facility that has been used in part for storage since 2006, when YDC moved residents to a new building on the same campus. This facility contained approximately 1,860 boxes and files of documents, some dating back to the 1940s or even earlier. Over time, YDC has been under the authority of different State agencies, boards and administrators, and a corresponding variety of different document retention policies and practices. There is no apparent consistency in how documents have been selected or maintained in storage, and there is no one at the State with knowledge of how, or which, documents were selected for storage over the past sixty years, or what records may have been lost. And an undeterminable number of documents have been lost or destroyed over time due to regular retention periods and policies or simply due to the passage of time. DHHS staff, with the assistance of attorneys from the New Hampshire Attorney General's Office and Verrill Dana, found records responsive to the criminal investigation requests. Counsel at Verrill Dana, engaged to serve as a "filter team" for certain of the documents requested by the Criminal Justice Bureau, then spent approximately 2,500 hours reviewing documents for primarily privilege from more than 600 boxes stored at the Administration Building.

In addition to the boxes in the Administration Building, DHHS retrieved, scanned, and produced records to the Criminal Justice Bureau from the State archives and from the district offices of DHHS, including files relating to certain individuals. The Criminal Justice Bureau also conducted its own review and retrieval of certain boxes of documents that it obtained directly from the Administration Building. Those included Log Books and Daily Cottage Reports, which were also scanned and have been made available to Plaintiffs in this action.

Consistent with the Court's discussion at the June 29, 2022 Hearing, the State Defendants began rolling out the Criminal Justice Bureau production in August, more than seven months ago, shortly after the parties executed a protective order and completed production in December. Plaintiffs did not request – either at the June 29 Hearing or in any prior Court submission or formal or informal request to the State Defendants – that the State Defendants cull those documents for responsiveness to their claims or document requests.

The documents Plaintiffs received were Bates-stamped and produced with the available metadata. The metadata was necessarily limited because the documents were scanned from paper documents. For these scanned paper documents, the metadata included file names assigned to each hard-copy scan by DHHS' eDiscovery vendor New England Document Systems, which identified the box number and location of the box (that is, in which room of the YDC Administration Building the box was located) from which the document was retrieved and some additional information about the scan. Many documents have more descriptive file names, such as: “Civil_RR-723_C-003 Use of Force Master Policy List_2008_Policies.TIF,” “Log Book -Incident (01-01-92 to 12-16-92).PDF,” and “Civil_MS8-11_Daily Cottage Report_07-1985 - 09-1985_Daily cottage report, night watch reports, daily change sheets.TIF.”

In all, the State Defendants voluntarily produced approximately 2.5 million pages of documents through December 2022. The documents were produced as multi-page .tiff, .pdf, or .jpeg images, with associated extracted text or OCR in .txt files (where possible). Given the age and condition of the documents and the fact that most of them contained substantial handwritten text, the OCR is neither complete nor perfect. Accordingly, the text of the documents may be searched in a limited way, but the file names of the documents are fully searchable.

In fact, a review and cursory search of the titles of the documents indicates that thousands of documents are relevant to Plaintiffs’ requests. Some simple searching shows that approximately 2,000 documents relate to a policy or policies (Second Set of RPDs 1-9, Third Set of RPDs 1-3, 11), approximately 800 documents are Log Books (Second Set of RPDs 14-17) and approximately 400 documents are Daily Cottage Reports (Second Set of RPDs 13) or time cards. A log listing documents identified by some simple searches, which Plaintiffs could easily have performed themselves, is attached as Exhibit A. All documents have been produced to Plaintiffs in a format that would enable them to be loaded onto and reviewed on a typical litigation support platform. Plaintiffs have the same ability as do the State Defendants to review the voluntarily produced set of documents to ascertain the same information about these documents. They should do so.

In addition to the voluntary productions, the State Defendants have been searching for and producing on a rolling basis (where they exist), the Resident Files (as requested in Second Set of RPDs 12) for individual plaintiffs and prospective plaintiffs directly to the requestor (which is, in most cases, Plaintiffs' counsel). This process began early on and continued even while other discovery was stayed. To date, State Defendants have produced 628 resident files to Plaintiffs. The process is ongoing and will continue. Moreover, after obtaining a Court Order, as required by N.H. Code Admin. R. Per. 1501.01, et seq., the State Defendants have also begun producing certain requested personnel files to the extent they still exist.

B. Plaintiffs Served Extraordinarily Broad Document Requests.

Plaintiffs have served three sets of document requests in the consolidated action since the State Defendants began making the voluntary productions. The First Combined Set of Request for Production of Documents was dated October 13, 2022 ("First Set of RPDs") and was limited to documents dated between 1995 and 2008 relating primarily to incidents involving particular YDC staff members. (Mot. Exhibit E.) The Second Combined Set of Requests for Production of Documents was dated November 30, 2022 ("Second Set of RPDs"). (Mot. Exhibit D.) As to this set, Plaintiffs erroneously contend that these requests were "substantively more or less identical to those first served" in the Meehan action in 2021. (Mot. at 5.) That is completely inaccurate. The Second Set of RPDs are hundreds of times broader than the Meehan requests. Among other differences, the Meehan requests were generally limited to documents dated January 1, 1990, through December 31, 1999, or were limited to documents relating only to Mr. Meehan. The Second Set of RPDs, in contrast, seek documents dating from 1960 to the present – six decades, not one – and seek documents relating to approximately 800 plaintiffs (and counting), not just one. In addition, there were hundreds of employees that either worked at, or whose work related to, the YDC, and Plaintiffs have identified and accused more than 100 of these employees of abuse so far. These requests include, dating back to 1960:

- “a complete copy of any and all rules, policies manuals” that “relate in any way to the hiring, training, supervision, and/or retention of any of the employees and/or agents and/or interns and/or contractors providing services at the Sununu Center;”⁴
- “a complete copy of the Resident Files,” “Daily Cottage Reports,” “Cottage Logbooks,” “Communications Logbooks,” “Operations Logbooks,” and “Incident Logbooks,” “that reference or relate in any way to Plaintiffs;”⁵
- “a complete copy of the personnel records” and the “work shift records” “for every employee, agent, intern, or independent contractor that was employed by or contracted with the Sununu Center;”⁶
- “a complete copy of any and all communications between Defendants’ agents, employees, interns, or independent contractors that relate in any way to Plaintiffs;”⁷
- “a copy of any and all communications between DHHS agents, employees, interns, or independent contractors and any other person or entity that relate in any way to Plaintiffs.”⁸

(Emphases added.) Notably, because there was a Plaintiff in residence at YDC or a contractor facility practically every month of every year between 1960 and today, the State Defendants would be required to repeatedly go back through a full sixty years’ worth of hard copy documents and ESI to find documents that “reference or relate to in any way” Plaintiffs and their allegations, as the number of Plaintiffs continues to grow and their complaints continue to be amended. The only practicable way to respond to the moving targets posed by such all-encompassing and changing requests is to produce virtually every extant document.

Plaintiffs’ Third Combined Set of Requests for Production of Documents, served just over three months ago, similarly seeks expansive discovery dating back to 1960 and relating to all Plaintiffs in the consolidated action, including:

⁶ Id., RPDs 18-19.

- “a complete copy of all rules, regulations, bylaws, policies or similar relating to DHHS’s placement of juveniles in Third Party Placements;”⁹
- “all contracts,” “insurance information,” “financial records,” and “all correspondence and other communications relating to DHHS’s placement of juveniles in Third Party Placements,”¹⁰
- “any and all notes, memoranda, or reports documenting suspected or alleged abuse or maltreatment of residents at the Sununu Center or Third Party Placements, including but not limited to Plaintiffs;”¹¹
- “any and all documents related to any investigations” by various entities “into the suspected or alleged verbal, physical, sexual, and/or emotional abuse of children at the Sununu Center;”¹²
- “any and all statements, affidavits, memoranda, notes, or other documents that you have obtained from alleged witnesses that detail, discuss, reference, or concern any of the events and/or allegations described in the Complaints.”¹³

(Emphases added.) Again, the only practicable way to respond to the moving targets posed by such all-encompassing and changing requests is to produce virtually every extant document.

C. Plaintiffs’ Request for Categorization is Impossible Because Plaintiffs’ Document Requests are a Moving Target.

Not only are Plaintiffs’ document requests exceedingly broad, but they are also constantly changing as new cases are added to the consolidated action. At the time of the June 29, 2022 Structuring Conference, there were only approximately 400 individual cases that had been consolidated in this action. Now, there are around 800 individual cases in this consolidated action, including nearly 200 short-form complaints filed in the last two months alone.¹⁴ The State Defendants understand that as many as 200 additional cases may be filed in the coming months. Plaintiffs' counsel also continue to amend existing complaints to add additional detail, thereby further changing the scope of the requested discovery.

To comply, for example, with Plaintiffs' onerous request for categorization of the records "referring or relating to Plaintiffs" or their allegations, and assuming there would be enough time and resources, the State Defendants would have to repeatedly hand-review millions of pages of records each time a new plaintiff is added or identified. The group of Plaintiffs is not fixed, making it impossible to do a one-time review. Additionally, the State Defendants do not currently know the identities of all the potential plaintiffs in the consolidated action, much less the particulars of their allegations. Further, the Plaintiffs do not know the names and identities of all alleged abusers, so the State Defendants could not know whether specific records are responsive. Plaintiffs' discovery requests are a moving target as the scope of potentially responsive material continues to grow.

Importantly, no one knows which claims, for which plaintiffs, will ultimately be permitted to proceed. The State Defendants filed two rounds of motion to dismiss briefing to obtain the Court's ruling on the applicable statutes of limitations and sovereign immunity issues common to all individual claims, and the existence or viability of certain causes of action. The parties anticipate a third round of motion to dismiss briefing, in which the Court will address the sufficiency of individual complaints in light of the Court's rulings on the master motions to dismiss. The result of this process may be the elimination of certain legal theories or the dismissal of certain plaintiffs' claims on limitations or other grounds. In other words, it is at this point entirely unclear which claims, for which of the approximately 800 known plaintiffs and hundreds of unknown plaintiffs, will be permitted to proceed. The State Defendants expect that Plaintiffs will seek to amend many of the individual complaints in response to the Court's rulings on these pending and forthcoming motions to dismiss. Accordingly, the scope of this consolidated case is currently unsettled and will not be resolved for many months. And, because new plaintiffs are added to the consolidated action nearly every week, it is anyone's guess at this point when the pleadings phase of this litigation will actually close.

D. The State Defendants Have Diligently Searched for Documents Responsive to Plaintiffs' Requests and Continue to Do So.

The State Defendants have been collecting and producing documents in connection with Plaintiffs' document requests. The State Defendants asked Plaintiffs to narrow or prioritize their requests, at least at this stage, to certain time periods they care most about, but Plaintiffs refuse to do so. Accessing responsive documents dating back sixty years has been challenging. Indeed, there is no easy way to review and collect information dating back to 1960, to the extent that it even exists. Obviously, the bulk of the State's records from 1960 and subsequent decades are in hard copy only, and several categories of documents that Plaintiffs have requested – including incident reports and daily logbooks – have long been handwritten, and in some cases continue to be handwritten to present. Retrieving and categorizing or reviewing documents for responsiveness is largely a manual, on-site exercise that cannot be aided by technology.

While the State scanned a large number of documents collected in connection with its production to the Criminal Justice Bureau (and later, to Plaintiffs), most of the documents in that collection date back only to 1980 and the search parameters of the criminal investigation requests differed from Plaintiffs' in other ways. Accordingly, the State Defendants have gone, and must continue to go, back to the YDC Administration Building, to identify additional documents prior to 1980 and other potentially responsive categories of documents, which they will do. This review is exclusive of their review and collection of hard copy documents stored outside of the YDC Administration Building, such as documents stored onsite at DHHS headquarters, District Offices located throughout the state, the State Archives, and electronic materials which is also ongoing.

Plaintiffs' requests also seek ESI, which will require the State Defendants to identify the existence of electronic materials and any legacy systems before they can even run searches through various electronic depositories. As computer technology has developed, YDC and its various parent agencies have adopted different systems and methods for hosting and retaining electronic data over the decades. State employees have used at least two different email systems dating back to the 1990s, and policies regarding which categories of employees would be assigned State email addresses and the kinds of information shared over those systems naturally have evolved as well. The State Defendant's identification and inventory of what kinds of ESI exist or can be retrieved, and how far back ESI is available, is ongoing.¹⁵

For their own part, the State Defendants have served two sets of document requests on Plaintiffs – the first on January 9, 2023, and the second on January 18, 2023. State Defendants agreed to 30-day extensions on both sets of requests, making the responses due on or about March 10 and March 20, respectively. No responsive documents have been produced by Plaintiffs to date.

II. ARGUMENT

Plaintiffs move under Superior Court Rule 29(e) for an order compelling the State Defendants to identify documents responsive to their document requests within the voluntary productions made to date. Plaintiffs also move for an order setting a deadline for two months from now for responding to their requests for production. “The trial court has broad discretion to manage the proceedings before it,” including with respect to “disputes over a party’s entitlement to discovery.” Henderson v. DeCilla, 2016 WL 6472474, at *1 (N.H. Sept. 29, 2016) (citing Achille v. Achille, 167 N.H. 706, 713 (2015), and Kukesh v. Mutrie, 168 N.H. 76, 80 (2015)). The Court should exercise its discretion here to deny Plaintiffs’ Motion in its entirety.

A. Plaintiffs’ Request that the State Defendants Re-Review Their Productions is Excessively Burdensome and Unnecessary.

Plaintiffs “respectfully request that the Court . . . order DHHS to (a) provide a metadata overlay for the State Defendants’ productions to date that identifies to which of Plaintiffs’ RFPs, if any, the produced documents are responsive, and/or (b) amend its responses to each of the individual RFPs to identify the Bates ranges of any documents responsive to the specific requests.” (Mot. at 12.) Plaintiffs claim such relief is necessary because the State Defendants produced an “indiscriminate dump of a disorganized mass of documents” that does not comply with Superior Court Rule 24’s mandate that documents be produced either “as they are kept in the usual course of business” or “organize[d] and label[ed] . . . to correspond with the categories” in a document request. (Id. at 8.)

Plaintiffs’ contentions are baseless. The State Defendants did not produce an “indiscriminate dump” of documents to Plaintiffs. They produced – and Plaintiffs were eager to receive – documents collected at the request of, and pursuant to instructions from, the Criminal Justice Bureau. The documents were voluntarily produced to Plaintiffs as they were kept and produced to the Criminal Justice Bureau. The State Defendants were neither obligated nor expected to cull or reorganize the documents before production to Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs’ request for an order requiring the State Defendants to now, after the fact, re-review those documents and match them up to Plaintiffs’ later-served document requests would impose an excessive and unjustified burden on State Defendants and would require the State Defendants to continue to re-review these documents as additional cases are filed or amended. This is particularly true because Plaintiffs are in a better position to categorize the documents themselves.

B. The State Defendants did not “Dump” Irrelevant Documents on Plaintiffs in Violation of Rule 24; They Produced the Documents Plaintiffs Sought.

Plaintiffs’ claim that the State Defendants’ method of producing documents violated Superior Court Rule 24 is erroneous. To begin, because the State Defendants produced these documents voluntarily, rather than in response to a formal document request, the State Defendants were not required to comply with Rule 24(b)(3). “Informal requests for production lie outside the boundaries of the discovery rules.” Garrison v. Dutcher, No. 1:07-cv-642, 2008 WL 938159, at *2 (W.D. Mich. Apr. 7, 2008) (quoting Sithon Maritime Co. v. Holiday Mansion, No. Civ. A. 96-2262, 1998 WL 182785 at *2 (D. Kan.1998)). “[A]ttorneys are under no rules-based obligation to respond to opposing counsel’s informal discovery requests.” Troutman v. Louisville Metro Dep’t of Corr., Civil Action No. 3:16-CV-742-DJH, 2018 WL 3873588, at *3-4 (W.D. Ky. Aug. 15, 2018) (noting that “there is no clear standard on which to judge a party’s response” to such a request); see also Mannina v. D.C., Case No.: 1:15-cv-931 (KBJ/RMM), 2019 WL 1993780, at *4 (D.D.C. May 6, 2019) (“If the District produced records voluntarily outside of any formal request, Rule 37 [governing motions to compel] does not authorize the Court to compel a further response . . .”). The State Defendants had no obligation under Rule 24 to organize or produce the documents in question in any particular manner.

Further, even if Rule 24(b)(3) applied to the voluntary productions in theory, applying the Rule here makes no sense in this context. Plaintiffs argue that the State’s documents were not produced “as they are kept in the usual course of business,” within the meaning of Rule 24(b)(3), because they were pulled from storage, produced in an allegedly disorganized manner, and included documents Plaintiffs now deem irrelevant. (Mot. at 8-9, citing In re Sulfuric Acid Antitrust Litig., 231 F.R.D. 351 (N.D. Ill. 2005)). Rule 24(b)(3) requires documents to be produced “as they are kept in the usual course of business” in order to address concerns that “litigants were deliberately mixing critical documents with masses of other documents to hide their existence or obscure their significance.” (Mot. at 9 (quoting In re Sulfuric Acid, 231 F.R.D. at 362-63).) Plaintiffs opine that the Rule permits a receiving party to “be certain that its opponent has separated wheat from chaff and the only documents produced are documents that were expressly requested.” (Mot. at 9.) But here, Plaintiffs complain, the “State Defendants have not undertaken any such culling; their production contains a massive number of nonresponsive documents intermingled with the responsive.” (Id. at 9-10.)

Plaintiffs’ complaints are illogical because the documents were not selected for Plaintiffs in the first instance. As Plaintiffs well knew, the voluntary productions were reproductions of productions made to the Criminal Justice Bureau. The State Defendants offered to re-produce these documents to Plaintiffs as-is, and Plaintiffs were eager to have them. Additionally, and as referenced earlier, the boxes of documents were merely labeled and sent to the scanning facility at the behest of the Criminal Justice Bureau as they were found – organization and all. Succinctly, the State Defendants did not violate Rule 24 just because Plaintiffs do not find certain documents requested as part of the ongoing criminal investigation to be interesting.

Plaintiffs provide no support for their unfounded accusations that the State Defendants deliberately “intermingled relevant and irrelevant documents . . . to cause Plaintiffs ‘undue burden and expense’” or “‘mix[ed] critical documents with masses of other documents’ . . . [to] ‘hide their existence’ [like] the proverbial ‘needle in a haystack.’” (Mot. at 8, 10, 14.) If the State Defendants’ object was to stymie Plaintiffs in their pursuit of justice, this voluntary production of documents gathered in connection with the State’s criminal investigation would be a particularly poor way of going about it. Regardless, there is no evidence whatsoever that the State Defendants’ production of these documents was some sort of bad faith ploy to burden Plaintiffs, rather than an attempt to provide Plaintiffs with a broad base of discovery without waiting for document requests. The State Defendants did not even know the identities of the current Plaintiffs when these documents were collected or the voluntary productions were made, much less what those Plaintiffs would deem “relevant” to their claims. And the State Defendants could not have intentionally intermingled “responsive” and “nonresponsive” document requests, because Plaintiffs did not serve their document requests in the consolidated action until after State Defendants began the voluntary productions. Cf. Hagemeyer N. Am., Inc. v. Gateway Data Scis. Corp., 222 F.R.D. 594, 598 (E.D. Wis. 2004) (granting access to document warehouse was acceptable means of production where “[n]o attempt has been made to hide responsive documents among nonresponsive documents”); In re Adelphia Communications Corp., 338 B.R. 546, 552 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2005) (in determining whether production of warehoused documents met Rule 34, “[t]he Court cannot emphasize strongly enough that there has been no indication that an attempt to frustrate discovery has been made by Adelphia intentionally intermingling unresponsive documents with relevant documents”).

Further, the State Defendants did not violate Rule 24 with respect to the voluntary productions to the extent those documents were not “organize[d] and label[ed] . . . to correspond with the categories in the [document] request.” Again, the bulk of Plaintiffs’ document requests were served after the voluntary productions were made, as anticipated by the Court during the June 29 conference, or were withdrawn prior to the voluntary productions, so the State Defendants could not have tailored their voluntary productions to any requests.

C. It Would be Excessively Burdensome to Match Every Document Produced to Plaintiffs' Ever-Expanding Document Requests.

The Court must reject Plaintiffs' request for an order requiring the State Defendants, within 10 days, to match up the documents within the voluntary productions to each of Plaintiffs' document requests. (Mot. at 12, 14.) Requiring the State Defendants to match up every document within the 2.5 million (and growing) pages of the voluntary productions with each document request to which it may be responsive is excessively burdensome, particularly because the scope of discovery expands with every new Plaintiff added to the consolidated action and every new amendment made by a pre-existing Plaintiff. Any additional effort will serve only to slow down the State Defendants' progress on gathering and responding to Plaintiffs' document requests.

When faced with a discovery dispute, the trial court is "permitted to keep discovery within reasonable limits and avoid 'open-ended fishing expeditions' or harassment to ensure that discovery contributes to the orderly dispatch of judicial business." Legacy Global Sports, L. P. v. St. Pierre, No. 218-2019-CV-198, 2020 WL 1932921, at *2 (N.H.Super.Ct. Mar. 17, 2020) (quoting N.H. Ball Bearings v. Jackson, 158 N.H. 421, 430 (2009) (citations omitted)). "A court must limit discovery where the discovery is," among other things, "unreasonably cumulative or duplicative, or can be obtained from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive;" or "the burden or expense of a proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit," taking into account the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, the parties' resources, the importance of the issues at stake in the litigation, and importance of the projected discovery in resolving the issues. Id. (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)) (quotation marks omitted).

Here, Plaintiffs ask the Court to require the State Defendants to re-review the documents they already produced and match them up to the document requests that Plaintiffs served after the State Defendants produced the documents. This request is, by its nature, cumulative and duplicative – Plaintiffs already have the documents; they want the State Defendants to do the work for them of determining whether the documents relate to their claims. The burden on the State Defendants would be immense; it would take months to categorize the documents by request number (or numbers), while somehow cross-referencing to each of the ever-growing list of plaintiffs and employees.

And, the review would never end because dozens of new cases are filed on behalf of new plaintiffs every month, and existing complaints are amended to add additional detail. For example, Plaintiffs’ RPDs include requests for “a complete copy of any and all communications” between State employees and independent contractors, or between DHHS employees or contractors and third parties, “that relate in any way to Plaintiffs,” dating back to 1960. (Mot. Exhibit D, RPDs 21 and 22). Another request seeks “any and all statements, affidavits, memoranda, notes, or other documents that you have obtained from alleged witnesses that detail, discuss, or reference, or concern any of the events and/or allegations described in the Complaints,” dating back to 1960. (Mot. Exhibit F, RPD 40.) Only Plaintiffs’ counsel know the full list of prospective plaintiffs in the consolidated case, and only they know the particulars of their claims. Cf. Butler v. Portland Gen. Elec. Co., CIV. No. 88–455–FR., 1990 WL 15680, at *3 (D. Or. Feb. 9, 1990) (where “[t]here is no indication that [the producing party] has purposefully produced the documents in an inconvenient form,” determining that a document request was “so wide-ranging and vague that [the requesting parties] are better situated . . . to sort through the documents and determine which are responsive”). Documents that Plaintiffs now consider irrelevant may become relevant later with respect to a particular plaintiff – perhaps even a plaintiff whose case has not yet been filed or an alleged staff member who has not been identified. To do what Plaintiffs ask would require the State Defendants to review, and re-review, the same set of documents every time a new plaintiff is added, or facts emerge that would make previously non-responsive evidence relevant to a particular case. This effort would serve only to divert the State's resources away from collecting, reviewing and producing additional documents that Plaintiffs have requested. Plaintiffs' request does not comport with the Superior Court Rules' mandate that cases be administered to secure a "just, speedy, and cost-effective determination of every action," and would "result in legal expense disproportionate to the matters at issue." Super. Ct. R. 1(b), 21(d)(1)(B).

Plaintiffs, on the other hand, are not unduly burdened without a metadata overlay or amended discovery responses. Plaintiffs complain that, without additional information from the State Defendants, they would have to review every page of the productions to find potentially responsive documents. (Mot. at 4.) They claim that they are "forced to incur incalculable time and expense poring over reams of useless documents in search of those that are relevant." (Id. at 10.) Plaintiffs have not substantiated their claim that the voluntary productions – which again, were selected pursuant to requests to aid the State's criminal investigations – contain "reams of useless documents" such that they should shift the burden of identifying relevant documents in them to the State Defendants. In any event, the Court at the June 29 conference anticipated that Nixon Peabody would, in fact, review every page of the State Defendant's voluntary productions for relevant documents, so that Plaintiffs could identify which documents they would then need to formally request.¹⁶ This was a burden and an expense that Plaintiffs readily agreed to so that they could get their hands on documents as soon as possible. They wanted the documents quickly and got them. They have simply decided that they do not want to review them after all.

Nixon Peabody, one of the largest law firms in the world, cannot credibly claim that it lacks the resources to review these documents. Plaintiffs have received them in rolling productions beginning over seven months ago, which has been more than ample time for them to review 2.5 million pages of documents and create their own index, search file names, or otherwise identify relevant documents. Yet, Plaintiffs take the position that the State Defendants should be required to perform this task for them in just 10 days. (Mot. at 14.) Frankly, given the urgency with which Plaintiff's counsel profess to prosecute their clients' claims, it is surprising that they claim not to know whether or where there are relevant documents in productions made up to seven months ago.

Finally, the burden on the State Defendants in having to review – and re-review – the documents they already produced is not outweighed by any benefit to Plaintiffs. If Plaintiffs' purpose is to identify particular documents or particular categories of documents that they have not been able to locate, the State Defendants are happy to discuss assisting with discrete queries, and, indeed, have during their tri-weekly meet and confers. See Ex. A. It is simply unnecessary and unjustifiably burdensome for the State Defendants to be required to go further and assign a request number to every page of the voluntary productions.¹⁷

¹⁷ Plaintiffs also request that the State Defendants “organize and label all future productions to correspond to Plaintiffs’ specific requests for production.” (Mot. at 14.) The State Defendants do not oppose, as Plaintiffs are aware, providing Plaintiffs information in their cover letters for future productions identifying generally the type or category of documents being produced (for instance, employee personnel files, handbooks, employee emails, etc.).

D. Plaintiffs’ Excessively Broad and Ever-Changing Document Requests Make a May 2023 Discovery Deadline Impossible.

Plaintiffs’ request that the Court set a deadline of May 31, 2023 – just two months from now – for the completion of discovery relating to their First, Second, and Third Set of RPDs is ludicrous. (Mot. at 15.) This deadline is not remotely feasible, given the scope of Plaintiffs’ requests and the fact that new cases are filed in the consolidated action, to which these document requests relate, every month. And the Plaintiffs say that it would take incalculable time to find responsive documents in the approximately 30 years of documents that have been voluntarily produced. (Id. at 10.) Yet they insist the State Defendants complete the task in much less time than they insist it would take them to do it.

A May 31 deadline would not give the State Defendants a “reasonable period of time within which to collect responsive documents,” as Plaintiffs contend. (Id. at 13.) As Plaintiffs recognize, by that date their most recent requests will have been outstanding only approximately five and a half months, and the oldest, only seven and a half months. Regardless of whether that is a “reasonable” time frame for discovery in any single case, it is not reasonable for the completion of discovery for over 800 (and potentially 1,000 or more) individual cases proceeding simultaneously. To recap, Plaintiffs’ document requests seek, among other things, “all communications . . . that relate in any way” to more than 800 plaintiffs. They seek documents relating to practically every aspect of YDC’s operations and other aspects of DHHS for over sixty years, including the personnel files for every employee, intern, or contractor ever employed at YDC.

The State Defendants are not opposed to setting a deadline for producing documents in response to any outstanding discovery requests made by Plaintiffs or State Defendants. They fear, however, that it is far too early to do so. As noted above, certain of the requests are tied specifically to the Plaintiffs and the particulars of their claims, neither of which are settled. In fact, Plaintiffs' counsel have indicated that they are in the process of filing complaints for approximately 200 new plaintiffs. The pleadings are not yet complete, and it is unclear which claims, for which plaintiffs, will be permitted to proceed. The State Defendants are moving forward as expeditiously as possible, but they cannot yet estimate how long it will take to complete this outstanding discovery.

As an alternative to ordering a discovery deadline now, the State Defendants propose that the Court incorporate a schedule for discovery of both the State Defendants and the individual Plaintiffs into an amended case management order to be entered after it has ruled on the master motions to dismiss.

E. Plaintiffs' Request for Attorneys' Fees and Costs is Baseless and Is Itself Frivolous.

Plaintiffs seek attorneys' fees for the costs of bringing this motion. Plaintiffs' request borders on the frivolous. Under Superior Court Rule 29(h), the Court "may order the offending party to pay the amount of reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees, incurred by the" moving party where "the court finds that a motion . . . was necessitated by action of the adverse party that was frivolous or taken for the purpose of delay." The State Defendants have acted neither frivolously nor for the purpose of delay, and this Motion should be denied.

Again, there is no basis for Plaintiffs' accusation that the State Defendants intended to impose "undue burden and expense" on Plaintiffs by producing – expediently, at Plaintiffs' request and with the Court's approval – the documents that the State collected for the Criminal Justice Bureau in connection with its criminal investigations. (Mot. at 14.) The point of this production was to provide a broad base of information to Plaintiffs without the need for document requests, not to satisfy any later document request. Plaintiffs were supposed to review these documents so that they could then serve specific requests for documents that had not already been provided. Plaintiffs' own later decision not to review those documents after all is not a basis for sanctioning the State Defendants.

Plaintiffs' complaint that the conduct of discovery to date has prejudiced their right to obtain justice "promptly, and without delay" also ignores the fact that the State Defendants are producing discovery with respect to more than 800 individual cases, and growing, simultaneously. (Mot. at 12.) This is not a standard two-party litigation or even a class action with common issues resolving all claims. This is more than 800 individual cases, which cover multiple decades with different policies, staff members and witnesses, and each case having a unique set of facts, all proceeding simultaneously. Although these cases are consolidated, the discovery Plaintiffs seek is not common to all cases. Little, if any, discovery is relevant to every case. Documents from the 2000s, for example, are irrelevant to plaintiffs in State custody in the 1980s.

Justice Kissinger denied class certification in part because each potential class members' claims involved "different perpetrators and different damages resulting from different injuries incurred via different abuses suffered at different times in a sixty-year period." Order (dated March 25, 2021) at 12. Indeed, Plaintiffs vigorously opposed a "bellwether" approach to trying these hundreds of cases because "[t]he abuse suffered by Plaintiffs spans a period of 60 years, during which time the State Defendants had different practices, policies, and procedures in place, and involves over 150 separate employees or agents of the State Dependents who are not common across all cases (or even a significant number of them)." Plaintiffs' Motion for Entry of Case Structuring Order (dated June 17, 2022) ¶ 9. They argued that a "bellwether" approach would be would be unfair and inappropriate because, "there is virtually no evidence that is likely to be common to all cases,” and “different documents [will be relevant to each case] depending upon when each Plaintiff was in State custody, where that Plaintiff suffered abuse, the duration of time that Plaintiff was in State custody, who the Plaintiff’s abusers were, and who the supervisors of those abusers were during that time.” Id. ¶ 11.

Any complained-of “delay” results from Plaintiffs’ insistence that all cases – and discovery relating to each of them – move forward with respect to all Plaintiffs at the same time. Plaintiffs served extremely broad document requests for hard copy documents and ESI dating back sixty years. The State Defendants have asked Plaintiffs to focus their requests on particular time periods that interest them most, but Plaintiffs claim they want all sixty years of documents now. The State Defendants cannot proceed on all discovery fronts at once. Any prejudice to any particular plaintiff by the speed of this consolidated action is the result of Plaintiffs’ “all at once” approach. The State Defendants continue to move forward on these cases. Plaintiffs identify no basis for attorneys’ fees and costs. Their request should be denied.

CONCLUSION

The State Defendants respectfully request that this Honorable Court DENY Plaintiff’s Motion and GRANT such further relief as justice requires.
